POPE MOVES TO END WAR

By EARL REEVES

International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 20 (INS)—Peace "feelers" are being broached throughout the world on orders of the Vatican in a new effort to end the European war, International News Service is able to reveal today.

Passed by Censor

The accompanying exclusive dispatch dealing with a peace move by Pope Pius was sent to the Boston Evening American by Earl Reeves, International News Service London manager. It is significant that this story was passed in full, and as written, by the British censorship. Great Britain always has automatically rejected in advance any compromise peace proposals regardless of their source.

The new peace campaign is being conducted quietly, but it is extending even to the United States.

Roman Catholic ecclesiastical organizations have been instructed to canvas the opportunities for peace and carry out a discreet but comprehensive investigation of how the idea of a negotiated peace agreement would appeal to the people of the world at large.

On the basis of reliable information which has reached London, it can be stated that King Victor Emmanuel of Italy and Pope Pius XII have been in contact with each other. Purpose of these discussions is to remove Italy from the toils of war.

BADOLIO CALLED

The fact that Marshal Pietro Badoglio, dismissed as chief of staff by Premier Mussolini, has been recalled by the Italian King and given a mission shows that the monarch—who has remained in the background for years—is now about to assert himself.

Victor Emmanuel's chief aim is said to be to get Italy out of the war before an irreparable disaster overtakes his country. Another factor is that the Italian populace is said to be getting out of hand and that "anything can be expected" if Italy's defeats become graver than they already are.

The objective of Pope Pius is peace with honor for Italy, apparently with the idea that Mussolini and his whole Fascist system will be shelved.

According to information in London a special Vatican envoy, possibly a papal nuncio, already is in the United States in connection with this plan. It is said this envoy will approach President Roosevelt and ask him to use his influence with Britain to make it possible for Italy to present London definite proposals for a separate peace.

PRINCE AIDS

The President also may be asked to declare himself in favor of a general armistice and then issue a challenging call for an international conference—not to discuss actual peace terms but to consider the possibility of achieving peace.

Informed quarters in London said the probable date of a definite move in this direction will be Easterday.

They said the entire plan will be "opposed fanatically by Mussolini and his clique, who know it will mean their doom and that King Victor Emmanuel will resume his full powers."

Italian Crown Prince Umberto is said to be one of the prime movers of the plan.

Bound for Boston, Jenny Sachsel, 17, and her brother, George, 18, refugees from Holland, arrive in New York aboard the liner Leerdam, a Dutch ship under the British flag. The Leerdam missed being torpedoed when Nazi U-boats attacked fleet of 38 merchant ships under convoy and sank five of them.

GREEK TAKE TEPELENI, IS BELGRADE REPORT

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 20 (AP)—An unconfirmed dispatch from the Albanian frontier said today the Greeks had entered Tepeleni, on the Albanian central front, scene of Italian resistance since last December.

Many Italian soldiers and quantities of war materials were said to have been captured.

Today's dispatches to the United States from Athens told of fighting in that sector, but made no claim of capture of the city. —Editor's note.

A dispatch from the Greek frontier town of Ghegolia said "great numbers of British troops" had landed yesterday at Salonika, Greece.

The reports said the population of Salonika gave the troops a "wild reception."

There was no confirmation of the dispatch either from the British or Greek legations here.

ATHENS, March 20 (AP)—A British bomber attack on Italian positions at Tepeleni—apparently carried out yesterday—was announced today on the heels of a Greek claim that a sector there had been littered with dead from frustrated Italian troop assaults.

"Bombs fell on the town and started a fire," the RAF communique said. "Bombers later machine-gunned Italian troop columns."

Greek lines have been pushed forward somewhat and a number of prisoners taken in the Viosa river valley, where Tepeleni is situated, and that Italian dead littered the battle sites.

The Italians launched a surprise attack in a snowstorm from three directions against 6000-foot-high Greek positions after artillery preparation, but were thrown back.

Nazis Again Blast Bomb-Ruin Victims

LONDON, March 20 (AP)—Shops were demolished, homes were badly damaged and casualties were caused by Nazi raids on the southeast coast today as a trek of homeless began from an area of London scarred in the capital's worst nocturnal pounding this year.

Two German bombers dived from the clouds in a hit-and-run attack on a southeast coast town just after four Messerschmitts had plummeted out of a hazy sky and raked a number of small fishing boats with their machine-guns.

From the London area, worst hit in last night's six-hour raid, flowed a stream of perambulators and small carts loaded with salvaged belongings of the homeless.

NEW RAID TODAY

A daylight raid alarm was sounded in mid-afternoon today.

London refugees were comforted and aided by begrimed firemen who had spent the night battling fires in the workers' district.

Many fires, big and small, were started by thousands of incendiary bombs, and the flames were used as targets for demolition bombs dropped later.

One large department store was burned out and bombs injured several firemen who were trying to extinguish the blaze.

RAF STRIKES BACK

Seven persons were killed in one building.

The Royal Air Force replied with an attack on the Cologne industrial area in the Rhineland, described by the ministry of information as "highly successful."

In Berlin, informed sources said hundreds of planes participated in the attack on London, dropping approximately 10,000 fire and explosive bombs. British Continued on Page 15, Column 3

Australian Premier Coming to See F. D.

LONDON, March 20 (AP)—An authoritative source said today Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies of Australia would leave England for the United States shortly to see President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

This source said that Menzies stay might be a long one and that he would visit as many industries as possible, returning to Australia by way of California. Menzies has been on tour in Africa and Britain for several weeks.

TENTH DRAFT CALL, APRIL 10, WILL TAKE 1400 FROM N. E.

Call for 1400 additional New Englanders for Selective Service to be inducted into the Army beginning April 10 was issued today by Maj. Gen. James A. Woodruff.

It was the 10th call issued by the First Corps Area commander. All accepted will go to Ft. Devens and from there to the 191st Tank Battalion stationed at Ft. Meade, Md.

State quotas under the call will be: Massachusetts 575, Connecticut 321, Rhode Island 212, Maine 210 and Vermont 82.

The Ft. Devens reception center has already handled approximately 15,000 men and it is expected that a total of 32,494 will have been received before the end of April.

Totals for individual states are: Massachusetts 17,859, Maine 2541, New Hampshire 1294, Vermont 990, Rhode Island 2578 and Connecticut 7232.

Army officials explained that the absence of New Hampshire from the tenth call meant that a call for the State would be issued somewhat later on in order to obtain troops for the 172nd Field Artillery regiment.

The 172nd is composed entirely of New Hampshire units and men and is now stationed at Camp Blanding, Fla.

Of the 1400 men to be called beginning April 10 a few may be assigned to duties in Massachusetts camps and forts, it was added by Army spokesmen.

36 Millions Tax Cash Paid Here

Internal Revenue Collector Thomas E. Hassett estimated today total income receipts for Massachusetts for 1941 at $36,000,000. The figure compared with $19,341,825 for last year. The tremendous increase is due to the extra national defense levy and the lowered income tax scale requiring payments of single persons with incomes of $800 or more.

Lyons Appeal Holds Fate in Mayoral Job

While counsel today prepared appeals from the conviction of Mayor John W. Lyons of Cambridge and his former campaign manager, Paul Mannos, it was learned that upon action tomorrow in Middlesex Superior Court depends Lyons' tenure in office.

Mayor Lyons and Mannos, convicted early today of bribery charges, will be sentenced tomorrow by Judge Harold P. Williams.

MAYOR JOHN W. LYONS
Guilty on 5 Indictments

If a stay of execution is granted, Lyons can continue as mayor until Supreme Court appeals, to be filed, within 21 days, are acted upon.

But if Judge Williams refuses a stay of execution, the mayor will be automatically out of office and barred from holding office again, according to legal experts.

SENNOTT WOULD SERVE

In this event, Francis L. Sennott, president of the city council, would become acting mayor, but a special election for mayor would have to be held before July 1, provided the Supreme Court had by then ruled on the appeal and rejected it.

Should the date of July 1 be passed without a ruling, Sennott would continue as acting mayor until Plan E, voted for by the Cambridge electorate, goes into effect Jan. 1, 1942.

Normally, Lyons would have been the last Cambridge mayor chosen by the people, but if a special election is held another incumbent will be the final elected mayor.

Today it was stated by Lyons' counsel, Francis T. Leahy, that

Lord on Trial for Killing Earl, Had Weighed Unwritten Law

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, March 20 (AP)—A police inspector testified today Maj. Sir John Delves Broughton, charged with the murder of the Earl of Erroll, asked him several days after the slaying:

"If you found your wife in bed with a man and shot him would you be hanged for murder?"

Lady Broughton, looking smart and lovely in a cool blue print dress, crushed raspberry-colored hat and dark glasses, listened calmly as the inquiry went into its second day.

The first witness was the woman proprietor of a tropical African roadhouse, who testified the dashing Lord Erroll and blonde Lady Broughton left her establishment shortly before midnight on Jan. 23, the night before the peer was found in an automobile, a bullet through his head.

Maj. Broughton is 57. Lord Erroll was 39.

Yesterday, the court heard a statement in which Maj. Broughton was quoted as saying Lady Broughton, his bride of only a month at the time of the slaying, and the Earl of Erroll were in love and hoped to marry.

The statement said Maj. Broughton had taken a "philosophical" view of the alleged affair and that at his wife's request he dropped a farewell note from her into Erroll's grave.

The inspector testified rubbish was found burning in the Broughtons' yard and a search disclosed bloodstained wool from a golf stocking and charred saucings.

He also told the court four bullets were found at the spot where Erroll died, none of which has yet been identified by ballistics experts.

KIDNAPING REVEALS VICTIM'S ROMANCE

Hardly a setting for romance is the police headquarters morning lineup, but a romance was revealed there today—and all because 19-year-old Anne Broderick of Stoughton got hungry and went to a South End restaurant.

Anne eventually landed in the lineup, and so did James Ahern, 22, of Roslindale, a shipfitter at Fore River, who hadn't even left the house in Worcester st., South End, where—both he and Anne said—they have been living.

In between Anne's leaving that house for the restaurant and her being detained by the officers, there was a matter of another lad, known only as "Louis," a stolen car, what Anne said was virtually her kidnapping, and a police chase, ending in a crash and "Louis' escape.

Although Anne became innocently involved with the car thief, the ride with him led to revelation she and Ahern were living together.

Several times in the lineup she referred to Ahern as "my husband," but both she and James admitted that they were not married.

However, when Lieut. James V. Crowley finished questioning them and all were walking out of the room, Ahern said softly to Anne: "Never mind, honey, we'll be married tonight."

The lad named "Louis," whom police seek as a car thief, escaped over South End rooftops when his mad joy ride ended against a fence in Paul st.

"Louis" was last seen when he emerged from a house and jumped into another car driven by a woman. Police suspected he had recognized a friend and had been driven away.

The hair-raising pursuit, in which the cars wove in and out of traffic at 30 miles an hour, narrowly missing pedestrians and other machines, occurred just before the rush hour.

Miss Broderick, an attractive brunette, told the police she was on the way to a restaurant yesterday when "Louis" came along in a car allegedly stolen only a few hours before. Miss Broderick did not know of the theft, however.

The car was stolen about noon from Michael P. Craten of Queensbury st., Back Bay.

HUB MARITIME HEAD SEES HUGE COST IN ST. LAWRENCE PROJECT

Cost of the controversial St. Lawrence-Great Lakes sea route project, initiated yesterday by President Roosevelt as a defense measure, would likely triple the government's estimate of $427,000,000, and mount to more than $1,250,000,000, it was charged today by Frank S. Davis, chairman of the Boston Maritime Ass'n and chairman of the National St. Lawrence Project Conference.

The latter group, composed of steamship, railroad and other transportation operators and big seacoast industrialists, has been conducting an organized opposition to the project for seven years. This group decisively defeated the project in 1934.

"Careful estimates, which include definitely predictable costs," Davis declared, "would carry construction figures above $653,000,000."

SEES HIGHER COSTS

"If the experience of the Panama, Suez and Chicago canals is duplicated the final cost of the project is more than likely to be $1,250,000,000 than the $427,000,000 which its proponents put forward, or the $653,000,000 figure which includes items of cost they omit—so it may even run higher, perhaps to $1,500,000,000 and $2,000,000,000," Davis stated.

The United States share of the entire cost, using the government breakdown on the $427,000,000 estimate in which Canada is to pay only $176,000,000, would be in excess of a $1,000,000,000.

Because the St. Lawrence "seaway" is not contemplated as a toll canal system, Davis pointed out that the cost would become a permanent fixed annual charge to be saddled upon American and Canadian taxpayers alike.

Davis was in Washington today, cloistered with railroad, steamship and business experts, mapping a campaign to defeat the project in Congress.

POINTS TO VARIANCES

In explaining the wide variance in government and private estimates in the cost of the project, Davis cited three considerations not included in the government breakdown of figures. These are:

1—The estimate (government) leaves out of consideration the cost of expensive changes in Great Lakes harbors which would be necessary.

2—The estimate allows far less for contingencies than is usually found necessary on projects of such magnitude and difficulty.

3—It allows nothing for the very real and certain cost of interest during the period of construction on the money which will have to be borrowed to build the waterway.

REFUTES DEFENSE LINK

In discussing the defense aspects of the project, Davis declared that time was the greatest factor militating against the seaway as a defense measure. He further charged that it would handicap the entire defense program of the nation instead of aiding it. He stated:

"According to the best estimates the navigation channel in the St. Lawrence cannot be completed in less than eight years, while no one estimates that it could be done in less than six years from the time that construction begins. Under even the most favorable estimate, therefore, the project

FRANK S. DAVIS
Fights Seaway Plan

SEN. STYLES BRIDGES
Raps Seaway as Unsound

could not be put to use before 1947, and more likely not before 1948 or 1949, and this is 1941!"

Even disregarding the time element, Davis said he questioned the project as a vital defense measure. Nature, Davis pointed out, would close the seaway five months out of every year with an ice blockade. The channel itself would be vulnerable to sabotage and even a single heavy caliber bomb would indefinitely close the canal, Davis stated.

St. Lawrence Seaway, Attacked by Bridges

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire today attacked the St. Lawrence waterway project as "unsound and unjustifiable" and a "serious blow" to the northeast.

"The St. Lawrence waterway project is now being dragged forth under the guise of national defense," Bridges said in a statement.

"I do not want to see this huge and unsound and unjustifiable project put through. It will cost according to preliminary estimates $550,000,000. The seaway would be frozen up several months of the year and not navigable, which would make it impractical from a year-round commercial viewpoint.

"The project is not in the interest of national defense. If this continent is invaded the valley of the St. Lawrence is one of the easiest routes. By building the seaway we would be building an aggressive nation a highway to the heart of America."

"The project would be a serious blow to the coastal cities and towns of the northeast and injure the principal ports. It would injure further the nation's railroads and throw thousands of their employees out of work."

"We would be spending hundreds of millions more for electric power, of which we already have a surplus in the area which would be served."

"By the time the seaway is completed the national emergency will probably be over. The country cannot afford to create new vehicles for New Deal spending."

Super-Warships For U. S. Navy

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—Naval experts in the House said today the next five battleships to be built under the two-ocean fleet program would be from 60,000 to 65,000-ton dreadnaughts—the world's largest.

Rep. Maas (R.) of Minnesota, senior minority member of the House Naval Committee, said he had informed the super-battleships would be of 58,000 "treaty" tons but when fully armed and armored would displace approximately 65,000 tons.

Maas added that he understood the ships were among the seven for which the Navy let contracts last Sept. 9.

$345,000,000 O. K'd for Bases

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—The Senate completed congressional action today on two bills authorizing a $345,000,000 naval public works program, including developments at Guam, Samoa and newly acquired British bases.

The legislation was dispatched to the White House for President Roosevelt's approval.

Liquor Dealers Quit Fight on State Tax

Continuance of the "emergency" tax on liquor was assured today for at least another two years when the Massachusetts Wholesale Liquor Dealers Ass'n withdrew temporarily its opposition to the levy.

Devens Jobs Racket Probe Before Jurors

Involving approximately $500,000 allegedly mislaid from 6000 workers, the federal grand jury began today an investigation into the asserted "labor racket" at Ft. Devens during the last few months, when the cantonment was being enlarged under the defense program.

The probe at the federal building opened with officers of Fitchburg Local 39 of the Common Laborers and Hod Carriers Union (an A. F. of L. affiliate) summoned as first witnesses.

It was declared, however, by U. S. Atty. Edmund J. Brandon:

"This is not an investigation of the union as such. It has to do with certain irregularities in connection with the hiring of labor and its affiliation with unions."

9 WITNESSES CALLED

Summoned by U. S. Marshal J. Henry Goppen and his deputies as first witnesses before the grand jury were the following men:

Joseph L. Carbone of Railroad ave., Fitchburg, president of Local 39; John Stropparo of Beech st., Fitchburg, treasurer; Peter Celona, Swan ave., Fitchburg, recording secretary; Dominic Fortunato, Monowoc rd., Fitchburg, vice-president.

Vincent DiNunno, Bennington st., East Boston, president of the union's eastern district council; Wanite Huhtaniemi of Mechanic st., Fitchburg; Albert Petrucci of Hart st., Wakefield; Jerome Zimmerman, Magnolia st., Roxbury, and Leo Rosenbaum, Homestead st., Roxbury.

Volumes of legal documents and other material were taken into the grand jury room by U. S. Atty. Brandon and G-Men.

FBI PUSHED PROBE

"Does this probe deal with job-selling at Ft. Devens?" the federal prosecutor was asked.

"As this is a grand jury matter and involves caution in procedure," he replied, "we must refrain from answering questions."

It was learned, however, that an investigation into job-selling and the forcing of "kick-backs" from men employed has been in progress for some months by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, under leadership of Virgil Peterson, head G-man in New England.

This investigation has disclosed, it also is reported, that some 6000 men employed at Ft. Devens were compelled to pay from $50 to $60, and even more for the privilege of working as common laborers and in mechanical trades during an approximate 15 weeks.

A lengthy report, covering pages of information gathered by the investigators, is known to have been made some time ago.

Blast in Jersey Starts Scare

KENVIL, N. J., March 20 (AP)—An explosion in the "burning grounds" of the Hercules Powder Co. plant at noon today jarred the country for miles around and created a near-panic in the area where a blast took 52 lives last fall.

There were no injuries. Damage was reported negligible.

The shock was felt in Morristown, ten miles away. Almost immediately, highways were jammed as motorists converged on the scene, fearful another tragedy had struck.

Patrolman Edward Higgins said the explosion occurred on the isolated "burning grounds," where refuse was being destroyed. A quantity of powder in the refuse apparently exploded, he added. There was no fire after the blast.

SOLONS URGED TO GIVE AGED MORE CASH

Before a cheering crowd of 400 in Gardner Auditorium at the State House today many legislators recorded themselves in favor of bills authorizing increase in old age payments.

As proponents of some 27 bills addressed the legislative committee on pensions the audience, largely composed of many aged folks and their friends, cheered speakers advocating payment boosts ranging up to $15 a week from the present $30 a month.

Rep. Daniel Sullivan, Lowell, assailed opponents, saying:

"If the so-called big shots in Washington can send $7,000,000,000 across the ocean to kill people in Europe why can't we pass legislation in this country to take care of our old folks?"

"Let's keep our money here and take care of old men and women who need assistance. I could throw a stone from where I stand and it would land where old people are starving to death."

ASKS $10 WEEKLY

Rep. Joseph E. Powers, South Boston, also appeared before the committee as the sponsor of one bill providing payments of $10 a week. He said:

"It wouldn't be a burden on cities and towns in the state, or the state either, since the federal government will pay one half of the cost. It wouldn't cost the City of Boston more than $30,000 to $35,000 yearly. Old folks suffer now because the law is so elastic."

Advocating payments of $15 a week to the aged was Rep. Joseph L. Whiton, former mayor of Quincy.

Charles C. O'Donnell, president of the Massachusetts Society for Old Age Pensions, reminded the committee the voters approved an increase.

"The citizens of Massachusetts," he said, "are familiar with the hardships of our less fortunate elders who are trying to keep body and soul together on the amounts they now receive. But a greater issue is at stake—the sanctity of the ballot."

"This question carried every district where it was on the ballot, from the Berkshires to Cape Cod. Many petitions are brought before you in the course of your legislative year, but very seldom are you called upon to act on one that has behind it the solemn mandate of 910,744 voters."

In 30 of the state's 40 senatorial districts voters last fall instructed their legislators to favor a pension increase. The vote was 910,744 to 214,801.

REFUGEES BANNED

STOCKHOLM, March 20 (AP)—Japan today closed one of the few remaining avenues of refugee escape from Europe, instructing its legation here to issue no more visas for refugees seeking to reach America via Siberia and Japan.

HOLDUP MAN CONFESSES, BLAMES PALS

Martin Foley was unhappy today in the police headquarters lineup, where he admitted he was one of three men who held up Dr. William E. McMahon, Roxbury physician, but said he didn't know the names of the other two.

"I wish I did know them," said Foley, wistfully, "so I could pat them on the back for talking me into this."

However, Foley, 22 years old and giving an address in Rensselaer st., Roslindale, didn't sound as if he meant "pat."

The youth said Dr. and Mrs. McMahon were correct in their identification of him and explained that he went into the venture because he "needed money pretty badly."

He was arrested when traced to a restaurant in the theatrical district after a man in Chinatown had been threatened with shooting.

Police said that on Foley's person were found a gun, diamond ring and bottle of medicine which had been seized from the doctor's office by two gunmen, and that the third man in the alleged plot had "fingered" the job.

The pair forced their way into Dr. McMahon's home in Tremont st., Roxbury, shortly after midnight. While one remained on guard in the hall, the second brandished a gun at the doctor.

Hint Train Sabotage Plot to Kill 44 Reds

PITTSBURGH, March 20 (INS)—Forty-four Russian engineers were aboard the Pennsylvania Railroad's Manhattan Limited which saboteurs missed by just 20 minutes in wrecking the smaller Buckeye Limited Sunday night, witnesses testified at a hearing today.

Five persons were killed and 114 injured in the Eden, Pa., disaster. Although the Manhattan conductor said he "understood" the 44 passengers were "Russian diplomats or engineers," an official company message listed them as "Russian engineers," B. B. Kroen, a Pennsylvania official testified.

Kroen said he had "no idea" who the engineers were and declared that the information in the message, sent from Chicago, was "not available to outsiders." He admitted it was "possible" someone might have gained access to company offices after closing hours, however.

Eighteen CCC boys, designated by an earlier witness as "Army men," occupied a tourist sleeper on the Manhattan, W. E. Bryant, flagman, testified. Of the Russian engineers, Kroen said:

"I don't know whether they were Russians representing their government or other engineers working for the Russian government."

The testimony came as a significant development in the wake of previous suspicions voiced by railroad officials that the Manhattan may have been the intended target of the wreckers.

W. M. Schreiber, conductor on the Manhattan — a 13-car train with two locomotives—said the foreign officials occupied two special cars on the train. He explained:

"I understand they were Russian diplomats or engineers. We had no message on them. There were no shipments of unusual value."

"On the rear, there was one sleeper with boys in uniform."

They weren't CCC boys."

Schreiber's disclosure came at the Interstate Commerce Commission's hearing.

700,000-Ton Earth Slide on Pennsy Tracks

PITTSBURGH, March 20 (AP)—More than 700,000 tons of earth slipped from the face of a hillside and cascaded down on the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks along the Allegheny river today, narrowly missing a freight train.

The slide curtailed traffic on the railroad's Conemaugh and Buffalo division and virtually blocked the Allegheny river boulevard which parallels the tracks.

Railroad engineers, who estimated the 700,000 tons, said they expected another 300,000 tons of earth to fall within a few hours.

Architects Busy On Housing Plan

Chairman John A. Breen of the Boston Housing Authority announced today that preliminary work of preparing the architectural plans for the project in the B and D sts. sections, South Boston, was under way.

He said the work would be done by an association of architects composed of the following Boston firms: Maginnis & Walsh, Griswold & Gullick, Inc., and Putnam, Cox & Saltonstall.

FIRE TANGLES TRAFFIC

Fumes from burning photographic supplies and equipment hampered firemen today in fighting a blaze that caused an estimated $500 damage to the Shaw Photo Studio at 133 Summer st., downtown Boston. Traffic along Summer st. was rerouted for half an hour.

Third Ship Yard Fire Damages Battleship

CAMDEN, N. J., March 20 (AP)—The Navy's new 35,000-ton battleship South Dakota, under construction at the New York shipbuilding yards here, was slightly damaged by a fire today for the third time. City firemen summoned to the yard workers, said the blaze centered in the welding department about two levels below the main deck. One welder was overcome by smoke. Officials said the fire apparently started from a short circuit.

IT'S SPRING AT 7:21 P. M. (BY CALENDAR)

Spring, the season of flowers, maple syrup and mating, comes to Boston at 7:21 tonight with the promise of warmer weather and diminishing gales.

But skeptical Bostonians mulled themselves only the tighter and prayed that the weatherman is right.

For the Vernal Equinox—the fancy term called spring by the scientists—was borne New Englandward after a stretch of the winter's coldest weather and most bitter gales.

In New Hampshire's mountains crews struggled against 10-foot snow drifts while fishing craft limped into port here after battling hurricane winds.

GALE DUE TO EBB

Atop Mt. Washington, the wind roared at the rate of 120 miles per hour. The weather bureau said it expects a gradual diminishing of the gale in the next 24 hours and reports wind velocities already dropping at lower elevations.

In northern Maine the coldest temperatures in the northwest were registered when the thermometer slipped to 3 above zero. Light snow flurries accompanied the cold.

SHIP RIDES OUT GALE

Anchored in Nantucket Sound was the four-masted schooner Herbert L. Rawding, which was forced to heave to in riding out the gale. Coast Guard craft stood nearby to aid.

After an all-night battle with snow and violent wind through 15 miles of track through Crawford Notch in the White Mountains, a Maine Central R. R. freight crew finally "won through," arriving seven hours late at Fabyan, N. H., en route to St. Johnsbury, Vt.

N. E. Foreign Trade Jumps $62,774,000

Foreign trade through New England customs districts in 1940 totalled $34,000,000, an increase of $62,774,000 over 1939, it was revealed today by Edmond F. Bemis, commercial agent for the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

Exports increased $37,622,000 and imports were greater by $25,122,000.

Bank Demands 10 Cents to Cash 3-Cent U. S. Check

GREENVILLE, S. C., March 20 (AP)—Not all Uncle Sam's checks are easy to cash.

A Negro woman who received a 3-cent check for participation in the AAA farm program took her check to a bank—where a teller informed her it would cost her 10 cents to get her money.

Sadly she returned to the Greenville County farm agent's office for advice. Administrator W. W. Cromer gave her three new pennies for the check.

Judge Rebukes Jury In Gun Case Verdict

Judge Joseph A. Sheehan in Suffolk Superior Criminal Court today severely rebuked a jury and ordered its members discharged from further service following a not guilty verdict on charges against Herbert Hutchinson, 28, of Wilson ave., Quincy.

Hutchinson had been tried for assault and battery with a dangerous weapon—a revolver—on Patrolman George F. Harnois, and for a morals charge involving two 11-year-old girls.

On the night of Dec. 28, 1940, according to police testimony, a man committed the morals offense before the girls, who called to Harnois, passing in a police cruiser car. Harnois and Patrolman Carl Dow, captured the man after a chase and put him in the back seat of the police auto. The girls, however, refused to ride with him so Dow got out of the car to call the station.

ARRESTED AT GUN
 The man put at a gun to Harnois' head and forced him to drive away. Later Harnois managed to slip aside, exchanged shots with the man, but the suspect escaped.

On Dec. 9 Hutchinson was scheduled to go to trial on an old morals charge, and while waiting in the corridor was arrested by Officer

John J. McCarthy for the Harnois affair.

The girls identified him and Harnois identified him as the gunman who shot at him.

A grand jury returned a no-bill on a kidnapping charge against Hutchinson, but the assault and morals charges went to trial.

On March 12 Hutchinson went to trial on the old charge he had been facing when McCarthy arrested him. He pleaded guilty and the case was continued until today.

REBUKE FOR JURORS

When the jury returned its verdict on the new charges today, Judge Sheehan rose and said:

"I cannot see how you can conscientiously return such a verdict, and I hereby order your discharge from further duty."

Then, returning to the old case, he ordered Hutchinson held in $5000 for disposition tomorrow.

The jurors discharged were: Charles W. White, 21 Brookdale, Roslindale, foreman; Samuel Kline, 17 Cutler st., Winthrop; Albert W. Graham, 79 East Canton st., South End; Frank J. Hallahan, 30 Hayes rd., West Roxbury; William L. Quigley, 10 Henry Sterling sq., Dorchester; Herbert Peck, 8 Dalkreith st., Jamaica Plain; George A. Dussault, 88 Parsons st., Brighton; Basil Leone, 851 Saratoga st., East Boston; John F. Fove, Hotel Dale, Dale st., Roxbury; Paul E. Murphy, 24 St. Germain st., Back Bay; Gerard V. Murray, 11 Bowdoin ave., Dorchester; and John J. Welch, 99 Rossmore rd., Jamaica Plain.

13,000 Back After Navy Yard Fire

Repairs were completed and defense work resumed at the Navy Yard in Charlestown today less than 24 hours after fire damaged vital underground power and communication lines.

While Navy investigators began a probe into the cause of the $15,000 fire, generally believed to be defective wiring or a short circuit, some 13,000 workmen were notified to resume normal operations.

MRS. CARMELIA VALENTI
 Reported Missing

Valenti Bride Missing While Jurors Wait

Scheduled to appear before the Suffolk County grand jury today to testify in the case of her estranged husband, accused of stabbing her with scissors, Mrs. Carmelia Valenti, 19, was reported missing from her North End home.

Mrs. Valenti's husband is Frank Valenti 21, son of "Rip" Valenti, sports promoter.

News that Mrs. Valenti was mysteriously missing and that police were searching Greater Boston for trace of her was revealed by Asst. Dist. Atty. Garrett H. Byrne, in charge of presenting grand jury evidence.

Byrne said the mother of the missing wife, Mrs. Josephine Madungo, walked into the North End police station at 2 a. m. and reported the disappearance.

The mother said her daughter had phoned about 9 p. m. and said she had met some girl friends and was going to the movies.

Six Feared Killed In Train Crash

SPARTANBURG, S. C., March 20 (AP)—Two heavily loaded freights of the Southern Railway system collided head-on at the foot of Glendora st. here and at least six members of the crews were believed killed.

2 HUB FIRES KILL MAN, 3 WOMEN

Four persons perished in fires in Roxbury and the South End today.

A grandmother and her granddaughter were burned to death in the Roxbury fire, which also claimed the life of a man. Firemen saved 20 in thrilling rescues. Four persons suffered burns and a woman was critically injured when she jumped from the third floor.

Miss Marie Hradsky, 80, died in her flaming third-story room in Clarendon st., South End.

Those fatally burned in today's Roxbury fire were identified as Mrs. Pauline Gabimore, 69, her granddaughter, Earline Johnson, 20, and Louis Blair, 34, a lodger. All were discovered in a charred room on the second floor of an apartment house at Humboldt ave. and Deckard st.

Unable to bear the heat, Mrs. Edna Brewer, 35, leaped to the sidewalk just before a fireman could reach her. She suffered a broken spine and fractured right leg.

So rapid was the advance of the flames that the firemen raced up ladders and snatched sleeping mothers and children from their beds, saving them from death by seconds.

Walter Lamberton, 28, occupant of a first-floor room, sustained burns about the back and side when he fought his way to the street through a burning corridor.

Mrs. Charlotte Holt, 35, and her son, William, 10, on the verge of collapse when firemen reached them and carried them down a ladder from the top floor, were taken to City Hospital and there treated for smoke inhalation.

One fireman who rescued a baby from the third floor pulled two more small children from a second-story window as he descended his ladder. He balanced the three children in his arms and walked the rest of the way down, tightrope style.

Acting Fire Chief William F. Quigley set the loss at $15,000.

Frank Carson, Editor, Dies

TUCSON, Ariz., March 26 — The body of Frank Wesley Carson, 60, retired assistant managing editor of the New York Daily News, and a colorful newspaper figure for nearly a half-century, was on its way today to his former home in South Norwalk, Ct., where funeral services will be held.

A native of Chicago, Carson died here yesterday of a heart ailment. A two-fisted editor of the old school, Carson made newspaper history with his tactics. He once kept the wife of a notorious gangster locked up in his office while he ran page 1 stories about her husband under her byline.

Carson began his career in 1902 in Chicago when he helped report the Iroquois Theater fire, in which 500 lives were lost. He worked at various times on the Chicago Tribune, the Chicago Herald and the Examiner as reporter and editor.

He had come here for relief from his illness which caused his retirement last October. With him at his death was his wife.

NEW ELIGIBLES FACE SECOND DRAFT DRAW

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—Quiet advance preparations are being made for a second selective service registration day, although only a small percentage of the 16,404,000 men who enrolled last October have been put in uniform.

The second registration would be for men who have reached their 21st birthday since last Oct. 16. By the time it is held possibly in the late summer or early fall, between 1,000,000 and 1,250,000 will have come of age, population experts figure and thus will be subject to military service.

Selective service headquarters officials said today only general consideration had been given thus far to the next registration, but advance studies were being made. Under the Selective Service Act, the President must set the date, and this is not considered likely to be before August or September.

Of more immediate urgency, however, were proposals pending in Congress to alter the draft ages substantially, as a transition toward eventual adoption of the European plan of universal military service for men automatically as they reach a specific age, such as 21.

Instead of requiring the registration of all men between 21 and 35, inclusive, the American Legion has sponsored a bill to limit military service liability to men between 18 and 25.

Train Cuts Off Man's Shoe But Can't Wake Him

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 20 (AP)—A police patrol car, sent by radio to pick up a man, found him on the railroad track.
He was asleep, his foot still resting against the rail, and the tip of his shoe neatly clipped off close to the toenail.
Police said an engine had sliced the shoe away from his toe—and left him still sleeping.
P. S. The man was charged with drunkenness.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often
Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about a pint a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

National Guard Due For Release in Year

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—A high Army authority disclosed today that, barring the gravest emergency, the War Department had decided to demobilize National Guard units upon completion of their year in the federal service.

The same policy also will apply, it was said, to the thousands of men who have been or are to be inducted into the Army for a year's training under the Selective Service Act.

Reports have circulated in recent weeks that the guard's tour of active service might be extended six months or even a year, in view of world conditions. It was understood that some National Guard officials favored this lengthening of the training period.

The War Department has been studying the question for some time, in regard both to guardsmen and selective service trainees. Congressional approval would be necessary to extend the training period, under existing circumstances.

RAIN LARGE NUMBER

The Army's decision against requesting any extension in the active periods was because the primary purpose of the present meettime defense preparations was to strain as large a number of men as possible.

Therefore, the land forces will be kept up to their intended strength of 1,418,000 men by the induction of fresh selective service quotas and additional three-year enlistments in the regular Army.

The full strength of 1,418,000 will be reached in June, according to present plans. The Army then will be composed of about 500,000 regulars, 300,000 to 375,000 guardsmen and 600,000 or more selective service trainees.

National Guard units, making up 11 divisions, will begin reaching the end of their year's service next September and in the ensuing six months all should be demobilized, unless circumstances dictate a new decision.

Under the 1920 National Defense Act, the guard's active service in time of national emergency is limited to one year. In normal peacetime it is limited to two weeks' summer training. Selective service soldiers become reservists at the end of their year, and are subject to call by the Army at any time.

ABOARD ROOSEVELT TRAIN EN ROUTE TO EVERGLADES, Fla., March 20 (AP)—President Roosevelt inspected the Navy's southeastern air station at Jacksonville, Fla., today and spoke with amazement of the progress that had been made on the enormous establishment since ground was first broken 16 months ago.

The President toured the big air station by automobile, held a brief press conference and boarded his train to head down the Florida east coast.

He said the progress on the base, which eventually will turn out 200 pilots and 600 mechanics a month, was fine and that he was very much surprised it was as far along.

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—Backed by the thumping bi-partisan House majority of 336 to 55, the $7,000,000,000 British aid appropriation bill went to the Senate side of the Capitol today, where Administration leaders confidently predicted it would get prompt endorsement early next week.

Sofia Sees Balkans Lost

By HUGO SPECK

International News Service Staff
 Correspondent

SOPIA, March 20 (INS)—Speedy Axis domination of the entire Balkans—with the exception of European Turkey—was predicted by authoritative quarters in German-controlled Sofia today.

Final preparations for this coup are now being made, these quarters said, adding that once Yugoslavia joined the Axis-Japanese alliance the Italo-Greek war will be "liquidated" and British influence on the European continent will be "ended."

Sofia newspapers showed interest in what they termed the diplomatic battle which has been progressing between Britain and Germany in Belgrade for the support of Yugoslavia.

But reliable sources in Belgrade said there was "no doubt" as to which side will win. They declared Yugoslavia will sign up with the Axis powers in the next few days.

Among these confident predictions, authorities revealed a large network of spies, allegedly employed by the British intelligence service, had been discovered by Bulgarian police.

Authorities said large quantities of explosives also were discovered, along with evidence showing the saboteurs had been receiving pay from British agents.

U. S., Britain Agree

LONDON, March 20 (AP)—A well-informed source said today the United States and Great Britain had agreed on details of the leasing of naval bases to the United States and probably would sign an agreement in a few days.

British and American experts have been discussing the terms since the United States departed over 50 destroyers to Britain last summer in exchange for Western Hemisphere bases.

CONG. DIES NEXT ON OGPU DEATH LIST, LONDON REPORTS

By MERRILL MUELLER

International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 20—Rep. Martin Dies, chairman of the Congressional committee investigating un-American activities, has been marked down as the next intended victim of the Soviet Russian OGPU, International News Service was informed on highly reliable authority here today.

Beyond successive congressional revelations, the reason Dies has been placed on the murder list which already has claimed Leon Trotsky and Gen. Walter Krivitsky is this:

He recently has unearthed a plan and methods by which American cotton and other vital materials will be shipped to Russia, enabling the Soviet Union to free a large part of her own bumper cotton crop and other supplies to Nazi Germany.

TWO PLOTS ON DIES FAIL
 Two investigators failed to trace this scheme whereby Russia would be able to aid Germany military without impoverishing herself, my informant said.

But Dies' discoveries, he said, will inevitably mean official stoppage of such indirect supplies to Germany which, of course, makes him treacherous in the eyes of the OGPU.

Two attempts against Dies were planned during the past two months.

On one occasion, the Congressman was to have seen some unidentified person to obtain "vital sabotage information." He was unable to keep the appointment and escaped a planned kidnapping.

THIRD PLOT REVEALED

In the second instance, the steering gear of Dies' car was tampered with. The damage was discovered before Dies used his car and so far as known he is still unaware of this attempt upon his life, it was said.

During the next fortnight, my informant declared, Dies will be approached by three new informants promising him important sabotage revelations. They probably will be or will identify themselves as Slav nationals.

As a measure of self-protection, my informant said, Cong. Dies should never see anyone not thoroughly known to him. All visitors should be searched, he said.

Nazis Call London Raid War's Greatest

By PIERRE J. HUSS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, March 20—German bombers by the hundreds last night and early today carried out the largest mass air raid of the war against London. Authorities stressed the attack was the greatest the Luftwaffe has yet undertaken, even including the devastating attack upon Coventry.

With fine visibility and flying weather prevailing, German sources said, the raid began at 9 p. m. and lasted until 3 a. m.

By that hour, they declared, a great, reddish glow of smoke blanketed the stricken sections of the British capital—the industrial and dock areas—while beneath this smoke screen German airmen had seen a "huge lake of fire" developing.

The hardest hit area was that lying within the bow formed by the river Thames.

AREA TURNED INFERNO

There, returning German pilots said, tens of thousands of incendiary bombs and tons of high explosives were showered down in a careless, stupid, causing "total destruction," particularly at the Royal Victoria, Albert and King George V docks.

They added that one large ship moored there was set on fire. German observers who witnessed the raid said after the first hour dozens of British searchlight batteries became active and heavy anti-aircraft fire was reinforced by batteries outside the London area.

But these defense measures and activity of night-fighters, they claimed, failed to prevent the Germans from achieving their purpose.

By 3 a. m., these observers said, the smoke and spreading flames were so extensive that assigned targets were difficult to find.

In addition, they declared, huge explosions—probably of gasoline and munition stores—were heard.

Shortly after midnight, airmen participating in the raid reported by radio at least 12 huge fires in London.

NAZIS SPREAD RUIN IN NEW LONDON RAIDS

ish planes which penetrated western Germany were said to have damaged dwellings—Editor's note.

Some of the most thickly populated centers in London were heavily damaged as the Germans gave the capital its worst pounding of the year after a series of nocturnal raids on provincial cities.

A large number of bodies was recovered from the debris of a public shelter hit by a bomb.

A whole block of residences was wrecked by two high explosive bombs in another area.

In other outstanding examples of destruction, heavy bombs split buildings in two and a police station was blasted apart, killing several policemen on duty.

In many sections persons still were trapped in debris in midmorning.

Five hospitals were hit, a large hotel was partly destroyed and public services were disrupted under the rain of bombs but the government said preliminary reports did not suggest very heavy casualties.

There was little activity elsewhere over London, though some bombs fell on both sides of the Thames estuary and on the south coast. Damage and casualties in these areas were described officially as small.

Profiting by the costly lesson learned in the great "fire raid" last Dec. 29, when parts of the city of London were burned out, watchers pounced on the incendiaries almost as fast as they fell.

At one point a bus driver formed his passengers into a volunteer fire brigade and they quickly extinguished 50 fire bombs which sizzled into the street near the vehicle.

An intense barrage, which some observers said was the heaviest of the air war, greeted the Nazi raiders, but only one was reported shot down.

The maternity ward of one hospital, in use as a temporary first aid station, was wrecked and the nurses' sleeping quarters damaged, but none of the patients was injured.

Five nurses were buried when debris from floors above crashed into their room, but they were rescued with only minor injuries.

Fire spotters on the roof of another hospital had a narrow escape when a high explosive bomb plowed through the roof, wrecking one wing of the building.

Five persons were killed and others injured in another section when an apartment house was struck. It was the "bad luck" that one tenant had been bombed out. The Luftwaffe used a new painting technique.

Instead of sending over single planes at intervals of a minute or so, the attackers sent one raider loaded with incendiaries to light a target and then followed in a few minutes with a formation of 10 to 20 planes with heavy high explosive bombs.

2 Italian Ships Sunk by British

LONDON, March 20 (AP)—British submarines have sunk two heavily-laden Italian supply ships and "almost certainly" destroyed a troop transport and another supply ship, the Admiralty announced tonight.

The communique said: "H. M. S. Utmost has carried out a successful attack on an escorted convoy of two deeply-laden Italian transports."

"The transports were of about 6000 and 4000 tons and were seen to be crowded with troops."

"The explosions of the torpedoes were followed by a very violent explosion and it is considered certain at least one of the transports was completely destroyed."

"H. M. S. Unique hit with torpedoes a fully laden Italian supply ship of about 3000 tons which was proceeding in an escorted convoy. This supply ship was almost certainly sunk."

"H. M. S. Triumph has sunk two deeply-laden Italian supply ships of about 2500 tons."

"TAKEN FOR A RIDE"

BY CLOSE FRIENDS

"Joe has a car. Joe will drive us," we all said. So Joe drove.

We started out fine—gay and friendly. But you know how it is on a long auto trip—we got cramped, stiff, nervous. Joe isn't the best driver in the world when he's tired, but he never lets anyone else take the wheel—or pay for gas. And it was even worse on the way home. Joe trying to make time. Back seat driving. Tempers wearing thin.

We all said, "Thanks for everything, Joe. It was swell." But we all meant, "Thanks for nothing, for that trip was a chore."

WHOLE ITALIAN ARMY KILLED OR CAPTURED, BRITISH SAY

LONDON, March 20 (AP)—The Ministry of Information said today the British Army of the Nile had established a "world's record for speed in action" and had killed or captured the "whole army of 150,000 men" which the Italian commander, Gen. Rodolfo Graziani had assembled in North Africa for the invasion of Egypt.

"It is believed that two tanks and four armored cars escaped from Graziani's force," the ministry said.

It added that the British had suffered fewer than 2000 casualties.

Canada Calls 72,000 For Army Training

OTTAWA, Canada, March 20 (AP)—Abandoning the policy of 30-day training for home defense militiamen, Canada's compulsory service administration called up 6000 men in the 21-year age group today as the first unit to receive four months of military training.

Under this new program 72,000 men will be put in uniform during the next year at the rate of 6000 a month. But the restriction that the trainees serve only at home remains unchanged.

Approximately 76,000 men were trained in the 30-day camps which opened last fall.

Under the new plan all the trainees will be 21-year-olds unless the estimated 96,000 in that age group produces an unexpected crop of physically unfit and exempted candidates in which case older men will fill the quota.

Although the stretching of the compulsory training period from one to four months was considered a drastic change in some quarters, there have already been complaints in Parliament that this was not enough.

One member, Capt. George White (Conservative) precipitated a stormy scene in the House of Commons when he demanded that Parliament should "face the facts and admit that conscription of all manpower for service anywhere in the world is the only answer to the present situation."

Malden Man Burned Saving Nephew in Fire

An elderly Malden man was badly burned about the face and hands this morning when he dashed into his burning home to rouse a sleeping nephew.

John J. Barker, 62, living in Hyde st., Malden, was one of eight members of the Barker family who fled the house in night clothing as flames raged through the structure.

Once arrived at safety, it was discovered that Robert Barker, 27, John's nephew, was still sleeping in the house. John raced back in, aroused his nephew and led him to safety.

Others who fled were Mr. and Mrs. Daniel R. Barker, each 60, Robert's parents; Robert's brothers and sister, Louis Barker, 29; Lyman Barker, 25; Mrs. Harriet Gilman, 53; and Mrs. Grimes' children, Dora, 14, and Walter, 16.

Brems As Cupid To Link Boston to 4 Captive Britons

Louis Brems, official city storyteller and reporter, today became Lonely Hearts Advocate for some of the most modern seeking romance with British army officers interned in German camps.

Since four officers appealed for Boston girls to correspond with them, a department of love epistles has descended on City Hall.

Now, comes Brems to announce that he will be glad to receive letters or gifts from the girls and so that they reach their proper destination in Germany.

DOCTORS FIGHT TO SAVE ILL MOTHER, SLAYER OF 2

Physicians at Lynn Hospital today battled to save the life of a sick mother who tried to end her life after strangling her two small daughters, according to police in their home in Pine Grove ave., Lynn.

Reported still in serious condition but slightly improved was Mrs. Marjorie Hussey, 26, who was found unconscious with slashed wrists and a tube from a gas jet in her mouth.

Beside her were the bodies of her daughters, Marilyn, five, and Nancy, 10 months, believed choked to death with an apron string.

The gruesome discovery was made by her husband, Clifford, 29, a drug clerk when he returned home from work. Police rushed all three victims to the hospital.

The children were pronounced dead upon arrival, and their bodies were turned over to Associate Medical Examiner Lawrence Cusick for an autopsy.

According to police, Mrs. Hussey has been in ill health since the birth of Nancy. She left behind a note, the contents of which police read to the grief-stricken husband, but refused to reveal for publication.

When Hussey arrived home from work he found the door of his home locked. He obtained a key at the home of his father, Nathaniel, who lives across the street, and returned to the house.

On opening the kitchen door he discovered the tragedy, and ran back to the home of his parents, who summoned police.

A police guard has been placed at the bedside of Mrs. Hussey, and an attempt will be made to question her, if she revives in any measure from the effects of the gas poisoning.

GAS TESTS SET FOR EDWARDS MEDICAL MEN

Members of the 54th Medical Battalion at Camp Edwards donned gas masks today for exhaustive chemical tests, while soldiers of the 51st Infantry Brigade and 182d Regiment polished brass for their first brigade review tomorrow.

The gas tests were to be conducted by Capt. Arthur G. Rogers of Lynn, who will send the medical battalion through clouds of tear gas and through a special gas chamber to test their reactions with the latest type chemical masks.

The parade will be tendered Maj. Gen. Roger W. Eckfeldt, commander of the Yankee Division, tomorrow afternoon and will be the first since the National Guardsmen entered federal service Jan. 18.

Of the 19,000 former guardsmen and selectees now comprising the division's modified war strength complement, about 3600 will form the line of march when it swings onto the parade ground. The marchers will be commanded by Brig. Gen. William I. Rose.

Draft induction centers at Boston, Worcester and Springfield began filling a new quota of 4600 white and 198 Negro trainees by shipping to Camp Edwards 403 men, 372 from Boston, 26 from Springfield and five from Worcester. Four Boston Negroes were sent to Ft. Devens.

Attack-Killer's Trial Set in N. Y.

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—Bronx County Judge Lester W. Patterson set Monday for the trial of George Joseph Cvek on murder charges after accusing the 23-year-old hitchhiker of "stalling" in obtaining counsel.

Cvek, accused of strangling Mrs. Catherine Pappas, Bronx housewife, has admitted the attack-holdups of nearly a score of other women in the East, District Attorney Samuel J. Foley said previously.

When Foley moved today for selection of a jury, Cvek said he was "waiting for a lawyer now."
"It seems to me you're stalling," said Judge Patterson. "We're not going to wait for you forever. I'll put it down for Monday, the 24th. If you haven't counsel by that time, I'll assign counsel."

NAZIS ALL SET TO SEVER U. S. RELATIONS

By KINGSBURY SMITH

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 20—Germany has taken steps to prepare for possible severance of diplomatic relations with the United States, it was learned today.

Acting on instructions from Berlin the German embassy has circulated all German diplomatic, consular and other representatives throughout the United States, inquiring whether they wish to be transported back to Germany if there should be a break in relations with this country.

German quarters state the move is merely a precautionary measure to ascertain what transportation facilities might be necessary in case relations should be broken off.

The German government, it was emphasized, does not contemplate at present taking the initiative in any such drastic move.

However, Berlin wishes to be prepared to handle quickly the transportation of its representatives out of this country should relations be severed.

Lyons, Mannos Guilty; Plan to Make Appeal

he and Herbert F. Callahan, counsel for Mannos, will begin their battle to save the two men tomorrow and that a new trial will be sought.

NEITHER OFFERS COMMENT
Lyons and Mannos themselves, however, refused all comments on their bribery convictions save to agree that appeals would be taken to Supreme Court.

Summoned from having early morning coffee in a restaurant near East Cambridge courthouse, they had stepped to the bar in superior court, tense and with flushed faces.

The verdict they had been awaiting for 13 hours was given—and it was "Guilty."
Although more than 200 persons, friends, relatives and curious, jammed the courtroom, there was no outburst. Attendants were warned there was to be no demonstration no matter what the verdict and the defendants and crowd alike heard the "guilty" in silence.

Lyons stared fixedly at the jury; Mannos turned his eyes toward the floor. Each were found guilty on 42 counts of requesting and accepting bribes and conspiracy to accept bribes.

10 YEARS MAXIMUM
Judge Harold P. Williams, who stayed at his post during the 13 hours, set tomorrow at 10 a. m. as the time for sentence, accepting a recommendation by Dist. Atty. Robert F. Bradford.

Under the statutes, the maximum penalty for requesting and accepting bribes is 10 years in prison and the maximum for conspiracy is two years in jail and a fine.

About an hour before the jury finally reached its verdict, Judge Williams called them from their lengthy deliberations to cite a case famous in Massachusetts annals—

IT WAS Madame Rowland who cried: "O Liberty! Liberty! How many crimes are committed in thy name!"

At least, that is the way Macaulay reports her statement in his "Essay on Mirabeau."

If Madame Rowland were living today, she could with equal truth and passion cry:

"O National Defense! What gold bricks are sold to unsuspecting patriots in thy behalf!"

The newest gold brick and undoubtedly the shabbiest and brassiest is the discredited and tarnished St. Lawrence Waterway Project.

President Roosevelt has been dreaming about that engineering nightmare for years—from the time of his boyhood, according to a popular and widely circulated magazine.

He talked in its favor constantly when he was Governor of New York.

He took it to Washington when he became President nine years ago and proclaimed it an "economic necessity."

Two years later he handed the Senate a treaty which he had negotiated with Canada to permit work on the waterway to begin.

And the Senate refused to ratify the document!

Thwarted but far from defeated, Mr. Roosevelt let it be known that he intended to bring up the issue again at a later date.

The later date has arrived.

Now, Congress is informed that the United States and Canada have signed an agreement providing for development of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Waterway Project as a NATIONAL DEFENSE measure."

No treaty this time.

A two-thirds vote of the Senate is required to ratify a treaty.

A simple majority can approve an agreement.

Besides, who would think of opposing anything clad in the appealing garments of "National Defense"?

TO MOST AMERICANS it is perfectly obvious that the President's fantastic dream has little or nothing to do with national defense.

Its more logical effect would be to impair and impede national defense.

The project would require at least seven years to build.

During this long and critical period it would drain the country's reserves of steel, iron, concrete and money, and absorb all the manpower, all the machines, all the materials that can be poured into it.

The result would be fewer battleships, fewer bombing planes and fewer modern submarines to defend ourselves and to give the nations we have agreed to assist.

And when the project was at long last completed it could not be used from the beginning of December to almost the end of April, for during those five months the waterway would be an ICE-WAY.

Besides, it would be an excellent bomb target.

A single, well-aimed shell from an enemy plane could put it out of commission and bottle up all the ships that were inside.

THE CHIEF SUFFERER under the President's nightmarish proposal would be our six New England States.

Seven months in each year the waterway would take business away from our railroads and ports.

It would discourage vessels from stopping at Boston and shipping their cargoes West and North by rail.

It would cause inland shipyards to spring up to compete with our established and more strategically located firms on the Atlantic coast.

It would in a very real sense convert New England into a large and economically isolated island, about which commerce would sail, WITHOUT STOPPING.

That would promote railroad bankruptcies, lead to loss of employment for thousands and cause widespread ruin.

And the ironical part of it all would be that the people of New England, as Federal taxpayers, would be furnishing a large part of the money that was accomplishing their own destruction!

Such a situation is certainly not conducive to essential national unity in this worldwide crisis.

Nor is it in any way fair to a section of the country which is assuming a large share of the re-armament burden and furnishing thousands of men for the armed forces.

The President has a big job on his hands, chiefly because he asked for it and got it.

He should therefore try to be realistic and strive to devote his talents and efforts to REAL national defense.

The IMAGINED kind will be of no more use to America than Nero's fiddling was to Rome.

On The Side

I AM THINKING of taking to the open road soon. Haven't decided whether I will go to Corpus Christi, Texas; Seattle, Wash.; Smackover, Ark. or Havana, Cuba. My girl friend was saying last night: "You have certainly taken me on some curious trips but I forgive you all of them except the time you took me to Galveston, Texas, and from there to Ypsilanti, Mich., and from there to Brooklyn. And what a last straw that Brooklyn was!" ... That the super colossal passenger liner America has a menu for dogs is something I have read several times. But in each case I have found several important details lacking in the story. For example, what are the dishes listed on this menu? No doubt one of them is Bone Supreme a la America; but what else? Also what are the hours at which the pups put on the feed-bag? How many times a day do they eat? Does a first cabin dog get the same food as a second cabin dog? Am I thinking of going for a ride on the America and taking my pup along. But he likes poached eggs, and if that item is not on the dog's menu he won't like the trip. Also, my pup likes a little snack around eight thirty at night just before he retires. Nothing difficult to prepare; just a couple of dog biscuits. But if he doesn't get these biscuits he begins to howl. I'll have to send for that menu for dogs before I make any plans.

SIDELIGHTS: "When men kiss nowadays they always tell," says San Francisco Policewoman Kathleen Sullivan. That's a sad state of affairs, if true. It was not like that in the olden days. Not in our neighborhood, anyhow. ... That man who first said: "We live and learn" really had something there. Up to 11 o'clock this morning I didn't know what the full title of Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was. In case you don't know, it is "Uncle Tom's Cabin; or, the Man That Was a Thing." I like the last part of the title better than the first. ... "Why should anybody joke about the size of Greta Garbo's feet?" asks a Bell, Cal., subscriber. "Greta wears a size six and a half, which is average. She likes to walk and when she does has brains enough to wear comfortable, sensible shoes. It may have been these shoes that started the gags about her having oversized tootsies."

GRETA GARBO IN GLAMOROUS POSE
Californian Praises Her Common Sense Shoes

shoes that started the gags about her having oversized tootsies."

ASIDES: "Why don't you complete the investigations you start?" writes a somewhat bitter Boston client. "Every day I search your column in vain for an answer I have been waiting for. I can stand the suspense no longer. Did you find out why they put parsley on fish?" ... "Last year I made the trip from Chicago to Los Angeles and return by bicycle," writes a Chicagoan. "This year I am going to do it by motorcycle. Maybe you would like to come along." Before I discuss the invitation, I would like to ask one question. Do I drive the motorcycle or do I have to cling on in the back seat?

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Wednesday—I hope those who came to dine with me last night in the interest of the Young Men's Vocational Foundation, Inc., found the evening worth while.

The stories which were told by the various speakers, seemed to give a very good idea of why we should be interested in lending a helping hand to boys who come out of our training schools, and even out of our reformatories.

Beyond that, everything that was said seemed to emphasize the importance of knowing conditions under which the youth of our country are growing to maturity in our communities. We must try to see that no economic and community conditions are so bad that they inevitably create problem boys and girls.

THERE ARE strange things happening in this country. I was reading a digest of the news the other day, and was amused to see a grouping of papers that have had similar slants on various questions lately. In the group were The Chicago Tribune, The Daily Worker, Social Justice, The Tablet, The Liberator and The Vindicator. All these publications of late have been harping on the beauties of peace and the necessity of saving our republic for ourselves. Some of them pin our danger on the international bankers, some of them on the present Administration, but in the main all of them harp on the same line. What a queer combination of bedfellows in the journalistic world this makes!

SOMETIMES I think a few people are becoming a trifle hysterical. To bear this out I shall quote here a few lines from a letter which I have just received from a lady.

There is nothing peculiar about this letter. The writer just assails the President and the present Administration and, incidentally, me, for starving the little children of the democracies of Europe. It demands a negotiated peace with Hitler and says it is no more possible to restore the conquered nations in Europe to their freedom than it would be to restore to England her original 13 colonies. She assures me that she is of British descent, with Huguenot blood running in her veins; that she is a Colonial Dame, and a member of the Order of the Descendants of Colonial Governors. All this to prove that she is no Nazi-lover, but for America first, and that she does not wish to police the world. She ends with her personal, not very flattering appraisal of the President.

Nothing in this letter, of course, is very odd. Just from my point of view, it is untrue. There is no reason in the world, however, why she should not express her opinions, no reason why she should not write the letter, and no one would question her right to do so.

But here comes the hysterical line: "I dare not sign my name for fear of a concentration camp." I haven't yet heard of any—have you?

THE BUGLE CALL OF THE NATION!

Direct contractors, sub-contractors, suppliers, and your local bankers — read how Shawmut's new DEFENSE LOAN DEPARTMENT can assist you in National Defense work —

THE FACTORY WHISTLE is the bugle call of defense . . . a new anthem pitched to the song of freedom that sings forever in American hearts . . .

Our job is to help New England industry keep its whistles blowing, day-in, day-out, uniting more and more New England craftsmen along the great fronts of defense. To that end we have created the first comprehensive service of its kind to aid the Defense Program in New England.

Months ago we started an extensive study of the Defense Program . . . Some of our ablest officers and investigators were sent to Washington, contacts were established, data collected and analyzed—a tremendous job beyond the facilities of any individual and most organizations.

These officers, supported by an adequate staff, now work together as Shawmut's DEFENSE LOAN DEPARTMENT. Here's how they can help you:

DIRECT CONTRACTORS AND SUPPLIERS

1. Through its close contacts with government offices in Washington, in New England, and elsewhere, Shawmut's DEFENSE LOAN DEPARTMENT is alert to the constant and important changes in this huge and swiftly-moving program.

2. By extending credit on a sound basis to concerns, large or small, who have contracts, or in connection with their bidding for (a) emergency plant facilities, including buildings or machinery; (b) the construction of barracks, naval vessels, airports or other government works; (c) the manufacture of materials and all kinds of armament products;
3. By helping you locate suppliers and sub-contractors;
4. By directing you to the various government procurement agencies that are interested in your products or services;

SUB-CONTRACTORS AND SUPPLIERS

5. By presenting to sub-contractors and material men special methods worked out by our bank for financing labor and materials;

6. By helping you locate direct contractors who may be interested in your facilities.

Shawmut's DEFENSE LOAN DEPARTMENT is sincerely interested in all-out co-operation with the Program of National Defense. Direct contractors, large or small — sub-contractors, large or small — any sound New England concern, and its local banker, will find here equal consideration, impartial attention, a truly helping hand.

Water on the Brain

MISS LUCY opened the book, leafed through several pages and began to read: "1865. Wednesday, February 15. For drawers and watch guard, $1.15. For boot mending and cobble, 35c. For washing, 40c. For Goodwin's Greek Moods, $2.00. For Hebrew Book, $3.75."

She looked up and smiled. "This was when he was still at college. It's only a list of expenses, you see." She bent her head again to the book. "For cravat and paper, 25c. For certificate to teach school in Paris County, $2.30. For Good Templar supper, $1.35. For medicine for mother, 1c."

Miss Lucy paused a moment and turned two more pages. Her hands trembled slightly. They were pale and wrinkled, almost transparent, and the blue veins stood out like ink.

"Tuesday, Feb. 28," she read. "Of course, this is the part that will interest you, my dear. . . . She went on: 'Today, on my 18th birthday, I James McElwee Hall, enlisted in the U. S. Service, to do my part for the Union in the War of the Rebellion. Rode all day through the mud and part of the night. In the evening had a little time to go to Lucy McElwee and had a good time and with a sweet kiss left my girl behind me.'"

"Wasn't he terrible?" Miss Lucy said. "To write that down? . . . Thursday, March 2. Left Rochester as the rays of the sun began to illuminate the eastern horizon—he wrote such beautiful description in his letters. I must show them to you some time, too, dear—and traveled till noon and had to walk about half way. We arrived at La Porte at four o'clock in the evening. Walked about through the town and found that La Porte was a gay place."

"Friday, March 3. Spent the time in the most easy way until afternoon, when we were examined and assured that we were good for Dixie. Left La Porte eight o'clock p. m. and traveled all night. Got no sleep. Arrived at Camp Carlington about eight o'clock a. m. "Saturday, March 4. Cold. Drove some of Uncle Sam's blues to wear and the rest of the day was spent in wading around through the mud. At last darkness spread her sable mantle over nature and lights were out, but not for me, with thoughts of home and Lucy McElwee too much for sleep."

The Principal Character in "The Diary."

MISS LUCY, who cherishes a diary written during the War of the Rebellion. In it are the everyday happenings of a neophyte minister who gladly responds to the call of his country, although he yearns hourly for "the girl I left behind me."

The Diary By William Brandon

"Sunday, March 5. Inspection took place, which kept us about two hours standing in the wind. Afterward came dinner, which was soon beans and bread. After dinner we passed the time up town. Saw Will Enyart in the evening. Wrote a letter to Miss Lucy."

"REMEMBER"

Miss Lucy lowered the book to her knees and closed her eyes and sat very still, her head nodding so that wisps of her fine white hair brushed across her cheek. "I remember the very one," she said at last. "He wrote such wonderful words," she ran her fingers lightly over the opened pages of the book.

"Monday, March 6. Found Mr. Enyart again and gave him a short note to carry home to Lucy and another to mother. The 15th were ordered to prepare three days' rations and be ready to march at any moment. In the afternoon I bought some butter of a pretty little girl and we had a gay time. Went to 'There,' said Miss Lucy, smiling. "In the evening there were several ladies in camp of both colors."

"Wednesday, March 8. Morning was dark and cloudy with plenty of mud with a prospect of more. I read a daily which reported that Early was captured. Our company was organized and mustered for pay but did not get it. The 150th regiment drew their arms. Every man to do his duty. Nothing more necessary than to keep this constantly in view, our great responsibility to God. This is but a seed time. The harvest is to come after. Will it be too great a crop for men ever to thresh and store away for good? Victory is sure but we are all wondering what is going to follow it. . . . He was a great man." Miss Lucy said gently. "A great, great man. Remember, he was only a boy, with only two years study for the ministry. A great, good man, dear. He was destined for it from the first."

send home. Bought a fine Zouave jacket, price $3. In the evening the teams came to camp bringing a letter from home and Lucy and I also got a box of provisions from the same lady. Rich!" Miss Lucy smiled and her fine voice wavered.

"Thursday, March 23. Was a rather dreary day, raining and a dismal darkness overhanging the heavens above and the wind blowing very hard, it seeming at times that our old shanty would fall. But Ben Green and I had a nice little breakfast indeed. A fine cake was among the rich repast made by Miss Lucy. Something to remember in future days."

"At dinner we feasted again on the good things from home such as chicken and meat, bread, coffee and preserves. The cake all disappeared. I wish I could see Lucy. I would tell her thanks in the best way I know. Ben Green and Sergeant Taylor brought in the evening a request to exhort the camp on next Sunday, as Ben has told Capt. Shields I am a preacher, Capt. Shields asking for services."

"I said I was not but I would use the text that the highest skill and the best discipline are sure to bring victory but we may pour water through a sieve all day and find we were fools. All in camp have been drilled in a single idea, to kill and to conquer, and poi-

My brother Simpson came to camp to see me in the evening, a great surprise, and wanting to go into the city. We would have a gay time but I could not get a pass. There is talk of marching orders."

WILD RUMORS

"Sunday, March 25. Morning was pleasant and with it came inspection—that dreaded work. Captain Shields' company were transferred to barracks 30 so that we all might be together. There are a lot of wild rumors over the camp. I did not exhort today as Captain Shields had changed his mind."

"Monday, March 27. Miss Lucy hesitated and when she went on her voice was softer: 'Today the 151st left for the front. With cheerful hearts and a short speech from the General we left.' Miss Lucy cleared her throat again. 'Now to win this cruel war,' she read, 'and end it. And then if my Lucy is still waiting. . . .'

Miss Lucy closed the book tenderly and looked up. Her eyes were a faded and misty blue, but as she lifted them they were filled with happiness.

"That's all there is of it," she said, very quietly, "for of course I've told you that he was killed in a skirmish. . . . On the next to the last day of the war."

She sighed and then smiled at herself and said, "but it is such a beautiful book, isn't it? And I want you to have it, my dear. You must keep it always. Your grandfather's diary."

She smiled again brightly and nodded her white head and handed the book carefully into the empty chair beside her.

soned souls will need an antidote. We cleaned up all the rest of the chicken, etc, and regretted there was only one cake."

"Friday, March 24. J. M. Hall was sick." Miss Lucy looked up and beamed, "Isn't that killing? Dear me. . . . I love that part." She lifted a hand and turned the next page slowly. She cleared her throat with a tiny treble sound and read, "Saturday, March 25. Was a beautiful day. So much so that the boys were cheerful, laying about in the shade during the day. In the afternoon there came to our quarters an old man who said he had been a rebel. The boys had a great amount of sport with him."

F. D. R., JR., TO VISIT HAWAII

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, March 20—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., who has been called for duty with the U. S. Navy, will go to Hawaii aboard his ship, which will leave its drydock on April 3. His wife, the former Ethel duPont, and their son, F. D., III, also will go to Hawaii, and await his arrival there . . . Warner Bros. have signed the papers for the movie rights to the life of George Gershwin. Ira Gershwin will report to the studio within three weeks, to start his assignment in connection with the picture. It will be called "Rhapsody in Blue" . . . Julian Gerard, Jr., nephew of America's wartime ambassador to Germany, isn't waiting for the draft. He's enlisting.

SUNDAY NIGHT, at the White House, the President saw a preview of "Western Union." It was finished at 11:41, but the President was loath to retire. And so for the first time since election night, he stayed awake until long after midnight, entertaining his guests with some stories of his youth . . . At 2:30 the President went to bed—but was up early in the morning. When he went downstairs, he saw Winston Guest, the polo player and patron of the night clubs. "I stayed up quite late last night," said the President. "Maybe I'll become a Glamor Boy."

WAYNE CHATFIELD-TAYLOR, Undersecretary of Commerce, is being criticized for having assigned space in the Commerce offices for the exhibition of James Mooney's new Economic Theories . . . theories which might be whitecaps on the waves of the future . . . Cornelia Otis Skinner has sold four magazine pieces, arranged for Dodd, Mead to publish her book of essays, rehearsed for Somerset Maugham's "Theater," completed Victor recordings of Shakespeare, made with her father, Otis Skinner. She also is arranging a radio series with Roland Young, and gave Marc Connelly an idea for a new play . . . Maury Maverick, mayor of San Antonio, has written to those of his friends who oppose aid-to-Britain, to ascertain their favorite brand of cigarettes. "Because if we don't send help," Maverick explains, "the time will come when we'll have to start sending favorite cigarettes to our favorite concentration camps."

ALL PHOTOGRAPHS of the President's inaugural showed Fala, the President's pet Scottie, being removed from the Roosevelt car, and thus prevented from joining the Inaugural Parade . . . A few weeks ago Fala disappeared . . . later he was found—strolling near the Loew Theater—and was brought back to the White House. Mary Eben of the President's secretarial staff fondled the pet and begged that Fala be forgiven. "Since they wouldn't let him attend the inaugural," Mary explained, "Fala went downtown to try and see the newscasts of it."

SALVADOR DALI, the surrealist artist, is vacationing with his wife at Bowling Green, Va. Fulco, Duc de Verdura, who now designs and sells expensive jewelry, notified the Dalis that he was coming to visit them . . . When Fulco arrived in Bowling Green, the surrealist painter met him at the station, and then took him to a forlorn, abandoned house on the dunes. The window panes were all shattered, and the dust lay thick upon the floor . . . "We have Old World charm here," Dali explained . . . The furniture was bare, and decrepit, and wherever the guest walked, he found his head encased in cobwebs . . . "History and tradition abide here, too," said Dali to his startled guest. After dinner, served by an ancient butler, the host showed Fulco to the bare, musty, windowless bedroom upstairs. The Duke, even then, did not rebel—and so Dali confessed, that all this was a plant . . . and took Fulco to their real, pleasant home, two miles distant.

WINSTON GUEST will have an unusual assignment, coupled with a job involving the British Purchasing Commission. Guest, who is one of America's highest-ranking polo men, will be assigned to fostering Pan-American relations by getting American teams to compete against the Latin American polo teams . . . Guest, however, must select the best men for this competition for his teams must not lose—or else our good-will neighbors might think Americans inferior.

CORNELIA OTIS SKINNER

EXCLUSIVE: It being near to Springtime in New England, the Miami Latin Quarter—the Boston-owned rendezvous which has made Harry Heller and Lou Walters considerably richer than they were last Fall—sloughs Saturday night in bang-up style and on Monday, Mr. Walters will take the entire show to Nassau, in the Bahamas.

THE OCCASION IS A BENEFIT SHOW to be presented Tuesday evening at the British Colonial Hotel under the sponsorship (more or less) of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor for the British War Relief Fund . . . Mr. Walters himself concocted the idea . . . The publicity derived from the stunt was sure to benefit the Latin Quarter show, which already has been booked for seven weeks "time" in the Southland.

BUT IT WAS NO SIMPLE task to make arrangements . . . Lou sent a representative to talk with the Duke's secretary, and the Duke sent Captain D'Arcy Rutherford to Miami Beach to okay both the show and remaining details for the Nassau engagement.

THE DEAL WAS HELPED greatly, too, by Madame George de Gripenberg, wife of the Finnish minister in London . . . It took some serious arranging throughout, because the Duke does not wish to be regarded as a playboy any longer—not, at least, the sort of playboy he was considered when he was the Prince of Wales.

PART OF THE SHOW WILL travel by plane, and the others in the heavy cast will make the faunt to Nassau by boat . . . Air pilots are reported to be so scarce in the Miami area, that society is despairing of traveling by air en masse—although this actually was contemplated for a time . . . There is now a move to organize a fleet of yachts to transport Americans eager to make the trip.

ONE IMPORTANT SNAG to the enterprise lies in the fact that Frank Mazzone, owner of the great Mazzone-Abbott apache act (which played Boston earlier this season) is an Italian subject . . . He is one of the real hits of the Walter show . . . If he lands on the Bahamas soil, there is a strong likelihood that he would be interned.

MR. WALTERS IS TRYING to get official sanction to allow Signor Mazzone, a citizen of a belligerent nation, to play in the British benefit . . . The Miami newspapers are featuring the story of the stunt on the front pages.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: If you have never seen a knock-about act nearly knock itself out, the chance is at hand—or at The Mayfair, to be explicit . . . Two boys and a girl, Lynn, Royce and Vanya, are the principals . . . They dress formally, but the comedy is thoroughly rowdy and thrilling . . . Booked to take the place of Henry Armetta when the movie comedian had to leave for the west, the trio is slightly sensational.

THE ANDREWS SISTERS—speaking of trios—are penciled in for the Ritz Roof this summer . . . With daily bulletins of Ed Wyner's progress in the wonderland of the Times Square and Radio City booking offices coming in, it becomes apparent that the famous Roof is out to outdo any of its rivals, past or present, in bringing "names" to Boston over a protracted period of time.

CARMEN AMAYO AND CARMEN MIRANDA, the Andrews girls (from Springfield, by the way,

Frances Langford, Jimmy Dorsey and Tony Martin are either certain or probable bookings, and Mr. Wyner has yet another surprise for the summer . . . The Ritz will present a girly revue—for the first time since it became the town's leading summertime oasis.

MEANTIME, HELEN MORGAN is doing nobly at the Versailles . . . Miss Morgan has been moved from the bandstand, where she worked the first two nights, to a spotlighted portion of the elevated dance floor . . . The improvement in the famous singer's effectiveness was immediate.

MARGARET SULLIVAN IN REPORTER ROLE

By Louella O. Parsons

Margaret Sullivan

HOLLYWOOD, March 20—Crisp Margaret Sullivan, who is at her best as a modern, intelligent girl of the present period, is set to play a newspaper reporter in "The Man Who Lived Alone" at Universal. Of course there is the little matter of the stork to reckon with, but so eager is Joe Pasternak to get Maggie that he is postponing the picture until the long-legged bird has delivered his precious package and she is well enough to return to the studio. Maggie's husband, Leland Heyward, says he won't be disappointed if the new baby is a girl—even though they already have two debutantes in the family.

RISE STEVENS

above all else, that "My Hero" will be kept in the movie version of "The Chocolate Soldier."

WHEN COLUMBIA bought the popular Hearst cartoon, "Blondie," no one knew that Arthur Lake and Penny Singleton would make Dagwood and Blondie come to life and that the fans would adore them and cry for more of these amusing comedies of home life. But that's exactly what has happened and while "Blondie" has been established as entertainment, Arthur and Penny have become increasingly popular. Now Penny will do an outside musical, "Lady Buckaroo," and Arthur Lake will do a conception yarn, "Pack Up Your Troubles," with Bob Sparks, producer of the "Blondie" series, in charge of both. Of course they'll both return to their "Blondie" jobs as soon as they finish their outside movies.

THE EXHIBITORS had their inning at the 7th annual Quigley Awards luncheon for the best exploitation of a picture. Awards are given to everybody else and the men who put the movies over are entitled to recognition. Everett C. Callow of the Warner Theater in Philadelphia, won the silver plaque and it was presented to him by Donald Crisp. J. R. Wheeler of the Granada Theater in South Bend, Indiana, won the bronze one with Y. Frank Freeman, president of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, making the presentation.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Laird Cregar has the measles and that's a lot of territory for even the measles to cover; Eddie Hillman slipped and hurt his ankle and he is now on crutches; L. B. Mayer is giving Jimmie Stewart a farewell party in the executives' dining room today; Rita Hayworth, who leaves for Mexico on the James Roosevelt "Pot of Gold" junket, goes by boat April 1; that was Bunny Hartley, 20th Century-Fox model, at Ciro's with George Raft. Where was Betty Grable? Noel Coward at the Scheherazade asking the orchestra to play Cole Porter's songs; Alice Faye and Phil Harris dropping in at the Charlie Foy night club for a midnight snack; June Duprez and Phil Reed, glimpsed at the Brown Derby; also Gene Markey and his little daughter, Melinda; the Herbert Marshalls, Bette Davis and her bridegroom, Arthur Farnsworth, all left on the same train for the East yesterday; Ralph Ringer of Robin and Ringer, some writing team, became a father for the third time when Mrs. Ringer presented him with a six-pound baby girl, named Suzanne; John Hombleton, New York designer, who did the clothes for the stage production of "The Women," visiting on the Warner lot; Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz have decided to become ranchers and will locate near Northridge.

Jack London Cast 'The Sea Wolf' Now at Met

Robinson Stars As Wolf Larsen

Jack London cast "The Sea Wolf" for Warner Bros. Steve Trilling, casting director for Warners, admits that he had little to do with it. The character practically cast themselves from the specifications laid down by London when he wrote "The Sea Wolf" in 1904, says Trilling. "The Sea Wolf" opens today on the Metropolitan screen.

Edward G. Robinson, as Wolf Larsen, John Garfield as Leach; Alexander Knox as Van Weyden, and Ida Lupino as Ruth Webster all came together many years later to fit their particular niches in the picture.

SAILED WITH LONDON

Even the bear rigger on the lot, Big Louis Madsen, who trims "The Ghost," Larsen's ship, is a character out of a London novel. Big Louis was boatswain on the Dirigo, on which London sailed around "the Horn."

Robinson is Wolf Larsen translated into terms other than physical power. Wolf Larsen's perfectionism consisted in making himself the perfect tyrant of his ship and complete boss of the destinies of the men aboard it. Robinson as a person has developed himself into an expert on paintings and music. In the film he portrays an expert in dealing with rough sailors.

Garfield, as the man who runs away from himself and his environment, is playing a role he knows better than any one London could have written about. Garfield was a slum child. He was a student in a school for problem children in New York.

IDA HAPPILY CAST

And Ida Lupino? She plays an escaped convict, a derelict.

"Don't worry about my fitting that role," she states. "My family for years back to the 16th century were thieves and vagabonds," she declares, unashamed. "In those days, all actors, when hungry, resorted to stealing their food when the customers refused to pay to see them perform."

On the same program will be "Here Comes Happiness."

"THE GIRL IN THE MOON" is the name of the new burlesque star who will headline the new show opening at the Globe tomorrow.

Dance Novelty On Globe Bill

The Globe Theater management promises the novelty of the season for its new show, starting tomorrow, when the "Girl in the Moon," wrapped simply in illusion leaps out of some prop clouds on to the stage.

Preserving her identity but otherwise self-revealing, the mysterious lady from Luna is expected to perform some sensational terpsichorean feats.

Other planetary burlesque divinities vying in charm with the "Girl in the Moon" will be that coast-to-coast eye-popper, Connie Fanslau; Beverly Lane from Hollywood and Celi de Luna. The 30 dancing Bernards, important additions to the Globe's weekly beauty parade, will introduce their newest dance specialties.

Steering the comedy capers will be Paul West and Meggie Lexing, with original routines, assisted by comics Artie Lloyd, Harry White, Harry Ryan and Irving Benson.

Two Gay Comedies Continue Record Run at Trans-Lux

Those two gay comedies, "The Virgin Bride," starring Danielle Darrieux, and "School for Husbands," featuring Rex Harrison, continue to pack 'em in at the Trans-Lux, where the peppy double bill is enjoying its fifth big week.

"The Virgin Bride" is a story of a bride who has married a rich old duffer out of spite and right away catches the eye of her handsome stepson. The farces skates on thin ice, but definitely is good fun without ever being raw.

It is what the French call a "luxurious comedy," with the lively, attractive Danielle as the often-mated screwball. The happy ending is duly arranged.

DANIELLE DARRIEUX is the star of the French farce, "The Virgin Bride," now in its fifth big week at the Trans-Lux.

EVENING AMERICAN, THURSDAY, MARCH 20, 1935

SHRIMP A LA KING WITH CURRIED RICE is a tasty main course for a meatless meal. It takes on added interest when served with green peas, cabbage salad and a delicious hot gingerbread with whipped cream.

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

BEATING it down from the ranch today in the teeth of a 70-mile wind and racing walls of rain. Wow! What a storm! If you think the High Sierra can't put on Sound Effect's when it starts heaving, you've plenty to learn, stranger.

All night the great pines had roared, thrashing in a bellowing, black surf against green glares of lightning. All night the waters shouted, heaving themselves head-long over the rocks . . . cutting new channels through the soft, mountain soil. With the steady drum-drum-drumming of the rain beating on the roof, and the wind yammering like a banshee against the window pane.

Some morning, the world was a wild wash of streaming mist and scudding cloud, tossing like banners against the snow-capped peaks. No weather for folks to go rolling down across a flooded state with the climate gone capricious.

But roll we did, for Quentin Reynolds, just back from England, was going to speak. And never have I known a smarter or a harder hitting article than that amiable, soft-smiling redhead. And what a little thing like 300-400—maybe 500 miles if you can feel the pulse of your times?

SO WE TODDLED the Big Baby out, headed her into the acid and side-swooped as if we'd been hit by a double-jack. You think, perhaps, you've seen storms. Just wait until 1000 miles of wide open space lands on you with all toe-nails spread! You'll know you've been places then.

Down the ranch road, with the water splitting in great wings on either side of us and the rain making a monkey of the windshield wipers. Across the creek and over the hill, taking a beating every yard of the way. And we weren't the only ones. Branches lay across the road, dead wood from thousands of trees. Sickly young growth lay with those branches, and crumbling old hulks. Not in years had the forest had such a house cleaning. And, sitting there, plugging leaks to keep out the battering rain . . . getting ready to jump when the wind swung us, end to, on the slithering clay . . . I did some thinking.

STORMS, they weren't what a home-loving body would pick for a social amusement. Did plenty of damage. Spoiled a lot of scenery. And yet storms certainly had their points.

They cleaned things up. Wiped out a lot of trash. Did more in 24 hours than a regiment of men and tractors would do in a month. Maybe things didn't look so pretty when a storm was over, but they certainly were rejuvenated, ready for a fresh start. Yes, storms did a job.

Then abruptly another thought hit me with a tougher jolt than the wind. Why didn't we humans let our storms do a job on us as the forest did?

Perhaps we too needed to have our dead wood knocked off, the dead wood of our complacency, stupidity and conceit.

Perhaps we too needed to have the weaking growths of childishness and cowardice yanked from our nature—even though it might leave empty stretches of heartache for a while. Perhaps we need wild waters of grief to cut new channels . . . clear new vistas.

Perhaps we even need to be knocked flat so we may learn at last how feeble the roots were which upheld our impressive front . . . roots of hidden cowardice and stupidity.

Love And Marriage Firm Grip on Self Needed

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

A year ago I met a quiet, lovable girl and fell in love with her. Just about that time my family moved to another town and I went with them.

In this new environment I met another girl and started to drink. I found myself married to her, without loving her. I told the other girl and promised to get a divorce, which I did. From that time on, my first love seemed a little cold. Her relations have told her what a heel I am, which roused my temper, so we broke up. Since then I've been going with different girls but none of them interest me.

I miss the first girl terribly, but she tells me she'll never go with me again. Do you think I would do well to leave this part of the country and start all over again?

T. G.
The trouble with leaving one part of the country and going somewhere else to reform, change one's luck, or whatever we choose to call it, is that we drag our own undisciplined selves along with us. It isn't a change of scene we require as much as a change of head and heart, and a good firm grip on weaknesses of character.

Don't you think you've had almost enough of falling in love, marrying the wrong girl, drinking, divorcing? How would it do to get a firm grip on yourself and cut out all ideas of marriage until you really effect a change of behavior? My best wishes to you.

Meatless, But Satisfying

By MARTHA LEE

A MEATLESS DINNER does not necessarily mean dining on a nibble of spinach. A meatless meal can be satisfying. And it will be if you replace meat with another high protein food such as eggs, fish or cheese.

In fact, when such a meal is carefully planned, meat will never be missed and the members of the family will rise from the table content.

For the main dish in the dinner outlined here today we have chosen shrimp because they are meaty and substantial to bite into, and because they have lovely flavor. Also, either canned or fresh shrimp are available to us all.

DINNER MENU

Chilled Tomato Juice
Shrimp a la King with Curried Rice
Buttered Green Peas
Cabbage Salad
Bread Butter
Gingerbread Whipped Cream Coffee

Here is the recipe for the shrimp dish. In this, eggs are mixed with the shrimp in a rich, creamy and utterly delicious mushroom sauce.

SHRIMP A LA KING

1 tbsp. butter
¾ cup green pepper, cut in strips
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
6 tbsp. milk
1 can (5½ oz.) shrimp
4 eggs, hard cooked

Cut the green pepper into strips about 1 inch long and ¼ inch wide, and cook in the melted butter. Then add the cream of mushroom soup and stir well, gradually add the milk and heat. Add the cleaned shrimp and heat in the sauce and just before serving add the sliced hard-cooked eggs.

CURRIED RICE

2 tbsp. butter
1 tsp. curry powder
4 cups cooked rice
Egg slices for garnish

Add the curry powder to the melted butter. Then add the cooked rice, heat and mix well. Pack the curried rice in bottom and around sides of casserole dish or serving dish. Fill the center with the shrimp a la king. Garnish the rice ring with egg slices. Makes 6 servings.

Note: Buttered rice may be substituted for curried rice.

CABBAGE SALAD

2 cups shredded cabbage, crisped and dried
3 medium-sized carrots, finely shredded

1-3 tsp. each salt and onion juice
3 tbsp. mayonnaise
Mix all ingredients together. Makes 6 servings.

QUICK GINGERBREAD

1 cup sifted flour
¾ tsp. baking soda
¼ tsp. salt
2 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. ginger
¼ tsp. nutmeg
1 egg, slightly beaten
5 tbsp. dark brown sugar
¼ cup dark molasses
¼ cup sour milk or buttermilk
¼ cup shortening, melted

Mix and sift flour, soda, salt and spices. Combine egg, sugar, molasses, sour milk and shortening; gradually add flour mixture, stirring until mixed, then beat vigorously about 1 minute, or until smooth. Turn into greased shallow pan and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 30 minutes. Makes 1 small (8-inch) square cake. Serve with whipped cream.

You Can Be Beautiful Magic Box of Cosmetics Offered in Rare Bargain

By ARLINE GOULD

SUPPOSE you've always vowed to yourself . . . that if you could have everything necessary to a complexion's beautification . . . if you could have the very finest creams and lotions . . . without purging your bank balance to get it . . . you, too, could have the kind of skin that would rate a full-page color ad endorsing this or that!

There's some truth in this . . . especially if you could use a lineup of cosmetics famous for the feminine beauty they impart to the skin. Well . . . here comes a special that puts the most essential of them easily within your reach . . . yet, even though you have already bought your Easter coat and bonnet.

There's a "Busy Woman's Box" featured in the line which has everything necessary for the "c, t, e" route to beauty . . . which this authority explains is cleanse, tone and soften. And everything is boxed together so that . . . whether you're busy or lazy . . . or don't just know what you need . . . it's all there, ready for you to use.

And the special is notable because . . . for the regular price of the box, which is $8.50, you get more cosmetics than you actually paid for. While a certain quantity of these boxes lasts, you may have it for $4.95!

For night or day treatment or clean-ups, for week-ends or whole weeks . . . the whole cleanse, tone and soften routine pops out of this magic box . . . whose large, clear mirror stands up for your convenience.

In it, besides makeup, which consists of lipstick, rouge, eye shadow and two powders . . . there's a fluffy, quick cleansing cream, a cold cream type of cleanser for real, deep down grime digging, a luscious, lubricating night cream, skin lotion and a lily-textured foundation liquid.

If you'd like information on this remarkable "busy woman's box," two for $4.95 instead of $8.50, while the quantity allotted to Boston lasts, phone Arline Gould, Liberty 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BRUINS 10-6 CHOICE AS PLAYOFFS OPEN

STANOWSKI

METZ

SCHIRNER

FLYING LEAFS—Don Metz, "Billy the Kid" Taylor and Sweeney Schirner, Toronto's speed line, may upset the favored plans of the Bruins tonight at the Garden unless Cooney Weiland keeps a fast checking line on the ice at the same time they're on.

At the left, the sensational and fun loving defenseman, Wally Stanowski, will have to do double duty with Bingo Kampman sidelined.

Three Leafs Sidelined

With just one day's rest after the greatest stretch drive in N. H. L. history, Boston's flying Bruins move into the first round of the Stanley Cup playoffs tonight against the pesky Toronto Maple Leafs, a 10 to 6 choice to cop the opener and a favorite by the same odds to eliminate the Leafs.

Right on edge for this important but four out of seven series, the Bruins have every intention of re-warding the 16,209 (Garden hockey capacity) with a victory against the somewhat battered invaders this evening.

In every right they should. The Leafs will definitely be without the service of Stylish Syl Apps, one of the greatest hockey players of all times; Hank Goldup, a sophomore left winger who is a standout, and Bingo Kampman, a vicious defenseman. Apps, as a matter of fact, isn't even in town while Kampman and Goldup will be spectators tonight with an outside chance of playing Saturday.

CAN'T COUNT OUT LEAFS

Lesing three men of that caliber is tough—so tough that Happy Day is commenting on the absences mournfully said:

"The only way I can make Bostonians understand the effect the sidelining of these players affect our team, is to say that the only way the Bruins could equal our woe would be to have Bill Cowley, Porky Dumart and Dit Clapper out at the same time." Maybe Day is a bit too pessimistic but there's no doubt that Apps, Goldup and Kampman would help the Connie Smythe outfit no little. Yet it would be silly to count those Leafs out because of these mishaps. Connie Smythe has been building his perfect squad for three years, and this winter was supposed to have produced the greatest team in Toronto's history.

They started off in just that manner and were making a run-away of the N. H. L. until the worst injury jinx that ever struck a Leaf squad reared its ugly head and the team fell off badly.

Proof of that is shown in their games with the Bruins this year. After winning the first two games from the Bruins, the Leafs then dropped three. With the return of some of the injured stars, they rallied and tied the Rossmen twice before bowing out in their final clash 3-2 with Apps, Marker and Goldup out.

RECORDS VERY CLOSE

In their eight games only on two occasions has there been more than one goal separating the two teams. Toronto has a 4 to 1 triumph over the locals and the B's have a 3-3 win over the invaders to even that score.

It's interesting to note, though,

Norwich, Vermont Off Arnold's Slate

NEW HAVEN, Ct., March 20 (AP)—Coach Jack Lockery today announced Arnold College's six-game football slate for 1941. Norwich and Vermont were dropped. The schedule: Oct. 11, Wagon, away; 18, Trenton Teachers; 25, Bergen, away, night. Nov. 1, Montclair Teachers; 8, Lowell Tech, away; 15, Connecticut Teachers of New Britain, away, pending.

N. H. L. PLAYOFF FACTS

GAMES TONIGHT

Toronto at Boston.
New York at Detroit.
Montreal at Chicago.

SERIES A
(Best four out of seven games)
Bruins 10 to 6 favorites over Toronto.

SERIES B
(Best two out of three games)
Rangers 10 to 3 favorites over Detroit.

SERIES C
(Best two out of three games)
Blackhawks 10 to 6 favorites over Montreal.

SERIES D
(Best two out of three games)
To be played between winners of Series B and C.

SERIES E
(Best four out of seven games)
To be played between winners of Series A and D.

If there's doubt about this town being hockey mad—just try buying a ticket for tonight or Saturday night's playoff game . . . Art Ross has been so badly harassed that he almost forgot to provide duets for the board of directors—what a catastrophe that would have been.

Happy Day has completed his plans for tonight's opener . . . he will throw the Bob Davidson, Nick Metz, Gordon Drillon line against the Krauts . . . the Bob McVoy, Pete Langille, Gene Marker trio will be given the task of holding the Cowley line in check while Sweeney Schirner, Billy Taylor and Don Metz will be on the ice the same time Cooney Weiland gives the Jackson wave the nod.

Jack Church will take Bingo Kampman's spot and team with the sensational Wally Stanowski on the defense, and the other back rink duo will be Bucko McDonald and Reg Hamilton . . . a guy named Broda will be in the nets, and the 15th man will be Alex Chisholm.

A check on the Bruins this morning revealed everybody in good shape except for Stoney Jackson who has a slight "charley horse" . . . If he's not right tonight, Herb Cain will divide center duties with him.

Both these Boston games not only go on a national hookup but they will be broadcast throughout the Dominion of Canada and a transcription will be taken for a rebroadcast to the Canadians fighting overseas.

Those Leafs aren't the least bit worried if the "horsing" they did in the dressing room after practice yesterday means anything . . . one of the players stole the trainer's scissors and hid them in Broda's top coat, somebody tipped the trainer off and when he found them he put a terrific blast on poor Turk who knew nothing about it.

Bill Cowley, who won the N. H. L. scoring championship this year with 62 points, the second highest in the history of the league, holds the high scoring playoff record with three goals and 11 assists, which he picked up two years ago.

Southpaw May Get Sox Shortstop Try

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., March 20—The Red Sox had four first basemen when they started training here last month, one right-hander and three lefties. They were, from left to right: Jimmie Foxx, Ulysses Lupien, Al Flair and Paul Campbell.

"What are they going to do with them all?" was the popular question of the day.

Well, Jimmie Foxx will stay on with the Sox, of course; Ulysses Lupien already has gone to Louisville, and Al Flair, 6-4 slugger is expected to wind up at Baltimore.

That leaves the fleet Mr. Campbell. What of Paul? This is the kid's third trip South with the Sox, and he seems to have no future with them; at least, not as a first baseman, because Lupe and Flair will outthrust him every day in the week.

He was a fixture in Louisville under the old Bush-McKinney regime because of his fielding dexterity and hustle, but now that the Sox own the club outright, Louisville will see no more of the popular young newlywed from Charlotte, N. C.

I'll Knock Your Hat Off

Art Mahan is going back to Little Rock, we understand, and Heinie Manush is keeping Hal Schiffer at Greenboro (see Rocky Mount), so there is only Scamman open for a first baseman in the Sox chain, and it is unlikely that he will be demoted to Class A after spending the last two seasons with Louisville (AA).

So what? Well, the answer will knock your hat off. THE SOX ARE CONSIDERING MAKING HIM A SHORTSTOP! A left-handed shortstop, you ask?

No, indeed, a right-handed shortstop. It's a strange story but true, nevertheless, that Paul Campbell, the left-handed first baseman, was originally a right hander. To this day he writes, bowls, plays pool and does everything except throw and bat right-handed. And he thinks he could throw as well right-handed as left with a year's practice, even though he hasn't tried it since he was a kid.

Paul's father, it seems, was a baseball bug, and had one yearning: 'Ambition: To see his son a successful left-handed pitcher. So he converted the naturally right-handed youngster into a lefty, and, being a dutiful son, Paul made the change.

The only difficulty was that he couldn't pitch, at least well enough for league ball.

But he was a flash on the bases, and could field with the best in the business, so he wound up as a first baseman and a good one. But left-handed first basemen who hit only .284 at Louisville have no future at Fenway Park with its distant right field fence, no matter how gifted they might be. But a clever second baseman, shortstop or third baseman might hit .284 and get away with it.

Good Enough for Phillies Last Spring

So if Paul is to stay in the Red Sox chain it probably will be as a right-handed infielder. And they weren't kidding when they talked about it either.

Did he care for the idea? No, he wasn't enthusiastic. "I'm 23 now," he said this morning "and have been kicking around the bushes for five years.

"If they knew I had no future as a first baseman, the time to tell me was five years ago, and not now. But the Phillies wanted me last spring so I couldn't be too bad.

"Anyhow, suppose I did make the switch and then some club came looking for a left-handed first baseman? I'd look fine applying for the job with a right hander's finger mitt, wouldn't I?"

Paul wouldn't have much future with the Sox as a shortstop anyway because Johnny Pesky of Louisville and Eddie Pellagrini of San Diego (a Roxbury boy) will be coming up after Joe Cronin goes over the horizon. But he might be all right as a third or second baseman. At least he could hit with Skeeter Newsome or Tommy Carey.

No, Paul will remain a left-handed first baseman, we suppose, always doomed to the minors because his father wanted him to become a left-handed pitcher.

Skating Club's Carnival Opens

The annual skating carnival of the Boston Skating Club, a fixture long before the "pros" hit the jack pot with ice shows, will begin tonight at the club's rink in Allston, with world-famous artists.

Shows will be held for the next four nights, with matinees Saturday and Sunday.

Among the renowned stars to perform will be Vivi-Ann Huilten, 10 times queen of Sweden's skaters; beautiful Jane Vaughn of Philadelphia, national women's titlist; Donna Atwood of Los Angeles, junior champion, and many another who has taken the place left vacant in amateur ranks when Sonja Henie turned "pro."

Men skaters include Gene Turner, twice men's national champion, and Bill Grinditch of Philadelphia, men's junior champ.

Star Blocker Lost To Eagles Before Practice Starts

"Denny" Myers, new mentor of the Boston College grid squad, is looking for a load of wood. "Denny" wants to do some extra-curricula knocking on the stuff. He is afraid that hard luck is looking for him.

One member of Myers Boston College squad is already on the injury list—and spring practice won't start until Monday, March 31.

Chris Brady, rugged blocking back from Peabody, who was a standout member of the freshman squad last season, is hobbling around the Heights on crutches. Brady sprained his right leg badly when he slipped on a waxed floor. Chris, expected to wage a strong fight for the job which Henry Tockyowski vacated last Jan. 1, will probably miss a week of spring practice.

ARMY CHIEF MAY RULE BASEBALL

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 20 (AP)—Perhaps it is an extremely long shot, but the next high commissioner of baseball might be Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the expanding United States Army.

The question of the next diamond commissioner naturally arose at the meeting of major and minor league magnates here yesterday, when one of the requests made by the minor leaguers was that they be given a chance to help name the eventual successor of the present baseball commissioner, Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

"The Jedge," still is hale and hearty and playing his daily round of golf over the nearby Belleair course. But there is no harm in reporting that Gen. Marshall made a big impression on the baseball colony in a recent one-night stand on the Florida west coast.

Names, unfortunately, cannot be used at the moment, but one of the game's top executives said this:

"I couldn't think of a man who would make such a fine commissioner. He's fairly young and he's a nut about baseball."

The chief of staff, talking to the baseball men, displayed an active interest in their plight. They are training like everything for the coming campaign, which seems trivial in the light of international affairs but is terribly important to them.

"Is the draft worrying you?" he asked them. "Are you losing many of your good men?"

"We don't know yet, general," they replied. "But whatever we lose it's okay."

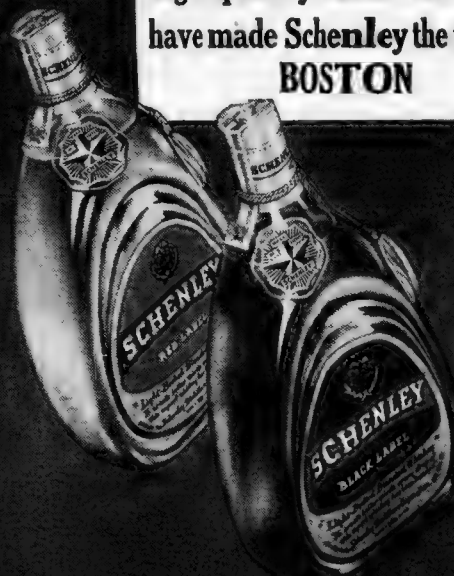

HE'S ON HIS WAY—Bob Fisher (6), of Seton Hall College, dribbles the ball past Warner Keane (22), of Rhode Island State, in a first round match at the Invitation Intercollegiate basketball tournament in Madison Square Garden. Seton Hall won, 70-54, to enter the semifinals.

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

THE SCENE WAS on the floor of the Boston Stock Exchange. Brokers shouted the prevailing prices on the local exchange as well as those in Wall Street. There was sufficient ticker tape to add color to any kind of parade you might wish to stage.

In the midst of this excitement, stood Weston W. Adams, the young man who owns the Bruins who will battle the Toronto Maple Leafs in the first game of the Stanley Cup playoffs at the Boston Garden tonight.

"What do you like, U. S. Steel or General Motors?" a fellow broker asked Adams.

"I'll take the Bruins," replied Adams laughingly. "From the kid line to the veterans I think we have the class, and the punch to win. Stocks go up, then they go down, and later on they may rally, but all season, following a poor start, the Bruins have been going up."

"I hope we don't get any crashes. Not stock market crashes, but crashes of hockey players that will send some of our stars to the hospital before the playoffs are over. Last year we would have won the Stanley Cup if it had not been for injuries."

"We enter the playoffs this season in good condition, and if we don't have any bad breaks, we shall win the Stanley Cup."

I told Weston I hoped the Bruins would do better than his horse, Mixwell, who ran out of the money at Tropical Park the other day.

"Mixwell doesn't run well from an inside post position which is why Ozark beat him," replied young Adams. "Watch Mixwell the next time he has an outside post position where there is not the danger of interference."

"Do the Bruins like an outside post position, too?" I queried. "The Bruins run well from any post position. We have a bunch of fine young players and sufficient veterans to give the club balance. Our club has made a sensational record this season, and it is prepared to carry right on through the playoffs."

Says Bruins Class of League

"I DON'T CARE what club we meet after we beat Toronto as I believe we are the class of the league. All I am worrying about is the possibility of injuries. Barring accidents, we shall drink a victory toast to the Bruins right here in Boston."

I turned the conversation back to horse racing. "I have bought a new horse, Irish Ivy. My father saw the horse race in Florida and he suggested that I purchase her. My father judges a horse on conformation, and does not concern himself so much with time charts. I hope I have got a horse that will win a few races for me."

Weston was interrupted on numerous occasions by telephone calls. "You must be doing a big brokerage business today judging from your telephone calls," a friend said to Adams.

The young broker and sports promoter laughed good naturedly. "Those calls were not stock market orders, but from friends who are trying to buy tickets for tonight's Bruins game. I wish the Garden was twice as large as it is. Then we might be able to accommodate all who wish to see the playoff."

I left Adams in the midst of his ticker tape and telephone calls.

Bruins 10 to 6 to Win

YOU CAN GET odds of 10 to 6 that the Bruins will win tonight's game from Toronto and also that they will capture the series.

When the same teams met recently, the Bruins were a 10 to 4 choice. The boys who make the prices at hockey games decided to close the betting gap between the two clubs for the playoffs as it would be battling for hockey's Pot of Gold not to mention the Stanley Cup.

Favorites frequently have a rough time in sports, and hockey has not always been an exception to this rule. As a result, one cannot afford to count Toronto out before the playoffs get under way. Almost anything can happen when a group of young men get tangled up with hockey sticks, discs, and the rough and tumble warfare that so often adds to the excitement of hockey contests.

Personally I hope the players on both teams do not resort to any free-for-all punching. In the first place, hockey is supposed to be a game of speed and science, and it does not add to its own luster when it sinks to the rank of a brawl.

In watching some of these hockey free-for-alls, I have also been disgusted by the poor execution of punches. Even a rank amateur boxer knows more about the art of tossing blows than our celebrated hockey heroes. I have often thought that maybe the hockey players on such occasions were more anxious to create a little extra excitement than they were to really belt an opponent on a vulnerable spot.

The crowd and excitement that goes with a playoff game does not call for anything other than dazzling hockey. I know the Bruins and Maple Leafs won't disappoint tonight.

Gloucester Seeks Tuna Tournament

—GLOUCESTER, March 20 (AP)—Gloucester wants to conduct an international tuna fishing tournament in Ipswich Bay if a similar event in Nova Scotia is abandoned this year because of the war.

"If the war continues and the international tuna tournament at Wedgeport, N. S., has to look for another site, we'll be crazy if we don't grab it," Larry Hart, manager of the Gloucester Chamber of Commerce said yesterday. He appeared at a hearing before the Massachusetts Legislature's ways and means committee in quest of a $750 state appropriation to finance the event. He said Gloucester residents already had promised $500 in prize.

Even in Court Jack Still Packs 'Em In

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 20 (AP)—Jack Dempsey, the old Manassas mauler of the prize ring, packed the House today with a personal appearance in Justice John C. Wheeler's Supreme court room to defend a $900 aliu suit.

The ex-heavyweight champion, surrounded by a throng of autograph seekers, threaded his way slowly into the courtroom as Clerk Angus Martin pounded his gavel furiously to restore order.

Dempsey is being sued by 71-year-old Davey O'Connor of Rochester who 50 years ago fought Lightweight Champion Jack McAuliffe under the name of Davey Connors, for $900 he alleges is the value of a movie film depicting merits of a portable punching bag which he claims was sent to the Mauler in 1935. O'Connor alleges the film never was returned.

Dempsey denies any knowledge of having ever received the 450 feet of film and claims he "never heard of it" until served with papers in the suit. The movie purportedly demonstrated operation of the "trainer floor bag" invented by O'Connor.

Ripper Collins Seeks Buc Job

38 LOS ANGELES, March 20 (AP)—Jimmy (the Ripper) Collins, who has been holding out from the Los Angeles Baseball Club, confides he has been dickering for a berth with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The veteran first baseman said he had permission of the Los Angeles club to "shop around for a better deal," and hoped to land with the Pirates, whose manager, Frankie Frisch, piloted the St. Louis Cardinals when Collins played on that club.

Collins has starred for two years with Los Angeles since his sudden sale by the Chicago Cubs in the spring of 1933.

RED SOX RELEASE DASSO, BARRETT TO HOLLYWOOD CLUB IN COAST LOOP

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., March 20—The Red Sox today released Outfielder Johnny Barrett and Pitcher Frank Dasso to the Hollywood club of the Pacific League.

Barrett was released outright, no strings attached; Dasso went on option.

It was a good break for both kids; for Barrett because he had no chance to break into the Williams-Finney-Di Maggio-Spence-Fox outfield quintet, and for Dasso because his home is in Santa Ana, Cal., only 30 miles from Hollywood.

Barrett is a Lowell boy who has been with the Sox organization four years. He captained the Lowell High nine in '33 and after playing semipro ball with the Dionne Independents there (Ulysses Lupien played with him) he was called to the attention of Hugh Duffy of the Sox.

FILLED DOM'S SHOES

After a season in the park league he was sent to Mansfield, O., where he hit .378 and stole 53 bases. He spent '38 with Hazleton, and '39 with Scranton in the Eastern League. Last year he was transferred from Louisville to take Dom DiMaggio's place in centerfield for San Francisco of the Coast League when Dom came to the Sox.

There Barrett led the league in triples with 22, in stolen bases with 40 and batted .385 while playing 178 games. Lefty O'Doul made a pull hitter out of him and although his batting fell off as a result he did manage to corral 12 home runs, and that's what the big boys are looking for.

The kid didn't have much of a chance down here, but he's a fine ball player. He has been laid up for the past week with a bruised heel, which has kept him out of uniform. In his last appearance here, during an intra-squad game, he batted for the pitchers and made two well stroked singles. Dasso, also 23, will accompany Barrett to Chicago. The bandy-legged right-handed Hercules will visit his mother there before continuing to Santa Ana, where his wife and 9-month-old infant son are awaiting him.

Dasso should be a winner in any league but seems to lack that divine spark. He's actually got as much stuff as any pitcher in baseball, and Cronin believes Bill Sweeney, 1930 Red Sox first sacker who is managing Hollywood, will bring it out.

POTENTIALLY GREAT

Like Barret, Dasso was with Frisco last year, and Sweeney has been hot after the pair since he first saw them.

Dasso was a schoolboy strikeout sensation around Chicago when the Sox signed him in '36. He spent '37 with Rocky Mount, '38 with Hazleton, '39 with Little Rock and Scranton (He pitched a no-hit at Little Rock), and '40 with Frisco.

He's potentially one of the best pitchers in the nation, though he never has compiled much of a minor league record.

Casey Names Big Four Of Bees Pitching Staff

By BILL GRIMES

HARLINGEN, Tex., March 20—"From my observations during the many years I've been in baseball," commented Manager Casey Stengel today, "the successful managers have had four starting pitchers ready when the campaigns began.

"Well, I've got no less than 17 pitchers in camp. And despite the weather, I should be able to get four in shape before they spring the barrier of the 1941 National League race. And I think I'll do it.

"You might think that I'm leaving myself wide open by telling you that I've already decided on my four starting pitchers. Well, I have and I'll go even further and tell you that they are Salvo, Erickson, Tobin and Posedel. They've been through the mill. They should know how to get in shape, even under adverse weather conditions.

"In the old days, major league managers had but four weeks, sometimes less, to get their clubs, particularly the pitchers, in shape. And they did it. At least the ones who won pennants did. So with seven weeks to train, I've surely got the edge on the old time managers. So you can bet that we'll be set for the N. L. race.

LEARNED LESSON

"Right now, I think I'll carry nine pitchers, possibly ten. I might try to carry on with eight. That will depend on how much protection in the way of extra infielders and outfielders I figure I'll need.

"In the event that we meet up with injuries, I want to have good substitutes available to plug up the gaps. And, between you and me, I've got some good replacements. I'd have saved myself a lot of grief if I had 'em a miler or two back when I lost Miller and Cuccinello.

"I learned something that year, and that was always to protect your club. There isn't a manager in baseball that can use ten pitchers, having an epidemic of sore arms or injuries. Sure, relief pitchers are necessary, for all hurriers have off days. But, I defy any manager to give a corps of ten pitchers enough work, during a regular season, to keep them in shape.

SOME WILL 'JAKE'

"There's another thing I've noticed during the past decade. During the training season, and bear in mind that they do not receive any salary during that period and up to the time that the player limit goes into effect, there are ball players who give managers their undivided attention and work like beavers. They are tireless, never late for practice or getting back to the hotel. They really give you the old college try and you begin to figure you are smarter than the managers who cut them loose for 'jake-ing'.

"But, when the squad has been cut down to 25 players some of the boys who made such favorable impressions from the first day they were in camp, get an idea that now that they've made the club that their strenuous work is over.

"I want to tell you something. I was really proud of the way my boys conducted themselves while in Monterey. You know that's a wild city, with different customs than we have in this country. But none of my players fell for that junk. But, some of them weren't kidding Ole Case. For if the guys I have pegged as 'jokers' were sure that they'd made the team, I'd have been busier than any of the Mexicans, who wear those flea ridden sarapis, trying to catch up with them.

"I think I've got a pretty good ball club in the making. And, it will be comprised of hustlers. So, if some of the boys aren't around as long after the start of the season or if I make some trades after the roster has been cut to 25, it will be because one of the 'three things'; they were used as a means for strengthening the club or they weren't major league caliber or they tried to 'jake it.'"

American-Record Tournament Attracts Many Maine Bowlers

Up Maine way, bowling interest is at high pitch as the hour approaches for the sixth annual American-Record grand candlepin championships which get underway at the famous Huntington Club in the Back Bay one week from next Saturday.

Bud Marsh, well-known kiegler from Bangor, Me., has filed entries for several of his professional bowling brethren, top flight rollers who will come down to town intent on lifting "open" title honors. His team comprises Clarence Modery, Merrill Barnes, Bob Golightly, Mark Ginn, Jack McPherson and himself. All hail from Bangor. And all will bowl in the singles and doubles, as well.

Barnes and Modery are a slick scoring combination. As a doubles team they finished a strong runner-up to the 1940 champions. From Westbrook, Me., comes another outstanding group, tourney headed. The Westbrook outfit represents the S. D. Warren Co. and will be entered in the singles, doubles and team competition in the amateur division.

Manager P. A. Batchelder of the Warren Co. tells us that the team had such fun competing a year ago that they just had to try to make their second attempt a winning one.

TUFTS KEGGLERS ENTER

Warren's five-man team will be composed of Lucas, Beatty, Knights, Chick and McBride. Laconte will fill out the singles list. The latter will bowl with Lucas in the doubles, while Beatty and Knights, Chick and McBride will pair in the doubles, too.

The first Tufts College entry of the year is in for the college men's division. It's from Earl Boschetti of West Somerville. He will find plenty of opposition from rival collegians of other New England colleges.

Joseph A. Pieroni of Somerville intends to try his talents in both the men's doubles and the mixed doubles, in both of which events he has filed entries.

DEADLINE NEAR

Among the amateur singles entrants are William Keith Paxton, Jr., of East Dedham, Joseph Larson of West Newton and Peter Oteri of South Boston.

With the event little more than one week away, it is imperative that those New England men and women bowlers who have tournament intentions, get down to the business of mailing their entry blanks without delay.

Bruins Favored As Series Opens

that the Leafs haven't beaten the Bruins in their last six attempts, which may mean something—or does it?

Past history of playoff encounters with those Leafs tells a story that's mighty sad from a Boston angle.

This will be the sixth playoff meeting between these two units. And, in the last five, the Leafs have eliminated the Bruins four times.

Back in 1933, the Leafs took three out of five after battling through four overtime games. Their next session in 1935 saw the Leafs grab three out of four and the very next year Toronto again eliminated the B's in a two-game series by scoring the most goals.

A playoff year that Art Ross would rather forget was 1938—Toronto turned it on and grabbed three straight tilts to whistle the Bruins into retirement.

ROSS CONFIDENT

Then came 1939—for the first time these two teams met in a Stanley Cup final. Here the Bruins finally caught up with the Leafs by blasting them out of the title in five games by winning four of them.

Here we are starting the 1941 series.

Has that Toronto jinx been shattered?

"Yes," says Art Ross, "definitely. That last meeting in 1939 ended Toronto's supremacy over the Bruins and we'll eliminate them this year surer than shooting."

Despite that confidence, though, Ross must have made the statement with fingers crossed, for those Leafs are no soft touch for anybody.

Tonight's the night—that first game will mean a lot.

If the Bruins can win tonight and Saturday they'll move to Toronto with a two-game advantage that figures to be enough to ring them into the finals.

And that's just what they intend doing.

B. C. HIGH SPORTS NIGHT ON TUESDAY
